11 British Ships Hit in Nazi Raid

BERLIN, April 4 (AP)—About 40,000 tons of British war and merchant ships were destroyed or damaged by German air raids on British convoys and other shipping yesterday afternoon, the German high command reported today.

Its communique said:

"In the west no special development.

"In the northern North Sea and off the British east coast, German fighting planes in the afternoon of April 3 attacked British war vessels, convoys and armed merchant ships.

"Despite recurring air fights with British chasers and hectic anti-aircraft defense from war vessels as well as merchantmen, the German attackers succeeded in scoring definite success.

"One destroyer, one outpost boat and two merchant vessels composing a total of 17,600 tons were seriously damaged.

"Three outpost boats and one merchant ship of 5000 tons were destroyed by fire caused by bombs. Furthermore, one outpost boat and three freighters totalling 17,000 tons were damaged.

"Two German planes made forced landings. The crews were rescued. One plane is missing

CHAMBERLAIN SAYS: 'HITLER MISSED BUS'

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared today he was "ten times as confident" of victory now as he was when the war began because Hitler "missed the bus" by failing to use the arms superiority Germany had at the start.

The prime minister addressed his Conservative party council proudly a day after shaking up his government to knit it into a tighter organization and to put chief responsibility for war strategy on the shoulders of Winston Churchill, energetic first lord of the admiralty.

Britain still is building her strength, Chamberlain declared, while Germany is close to the limits of her strength.

DRAIN ENEMY'S LIFE

Chamberlain hinted at impending new measures to make the allies' blockade of Germany escape-proof.

"You can take it from me," he said, "that one by one leaks and loopholes are being stopped and that as the war goes on that strangling effect will more and more drain the lifeblood out of our enemy."

On the other hand, he declared, there is no shortage of food in Britain.

"If later we want to save shipping space for war materials or if we want to restrict demands upon our foreign exchange, we may have to do without some things we have been used to, but we can stand a lot of curtailment without feeling any the worse for it," he said.

He said consideration for neu-

BULLETIN

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today that a secret session of the House of Commons would be arranged for next Thursday to debate the government's economic warfare policies.

Report Russia Demands Finnish Demobilization

STOCKHOLM, April 4 (INS)—New Soviet demands upon Finland were reported today by the Moscow correspondent of the newspaper Tidningen.

The demands, said the dispatch, include demobilization of the new Russo-Finnish frontier, demobilization of the Finnish army to peace-time strength and a stipulation prohibiting construction of a new Finnish Mannerheim line.

CABINET SHAKEUP STIRS BRITISH IRE

LONDON, April 4 (INS)—Great Britain's cabinet shuffle, which placed First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill in the position of virtual military dictator, aroused a storm of criticism and protest in England today.

The general press reaction was that the cabinet reorganization was not drastic enough. Newspapers of virtually all shades of political opinion joined in the outburst of criticism.

One of the most outspoken objectors was the Laborite London Daily Herald, which lipped into Prime Minister Chamberlain vigorously.

"The government changes have been received with astonishment and dismay," said the Herald.

"Once again Chamberlain, either from lack of imagination or a surfeit of complacency, has thrown away an opportunity for reconstruction."

Referring to cancellation of the office of minister for coordination of defense, formerly held by Lord Chatfield, who resigned, the Herald added:

"If the prime minister thinks he can abolish a cabinet office of this nominal magnitude without explaining himself to the country, he is vastly mistaken."

A famous liberal newspaper, the Manchester Guardian, joined the chorus of disapproval with this comment:

"The changes in the ministry

Dies Holds 2d Hub Red In Contempt

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Dies committee met defiance today from another Communist party leader, Philip Frankfeld of Boston, and voted to cite him for contempt in an uproarious session from which Frankfeld said he was ejected by capitol police.

Frankfeld, executive secretary of the Communist party in New England, refused to answer a single committee question unless he was given permission to read a resolution which he said 10,000 citizens of Massachusetts had adopted in Boston Arena last Sunday.

"I will not answer a single question until yol listen to the voice of the American people," he shouted, his eyes flashing.

Chairman Dies refused permission to read the resolution, and Frankfeld roared:

"Do you mean to silence the voices of 10,000 Americans?"

Dies banged for order, rebuked the witness for making such statements and then announced the contempt citation.

"The American people will issue a writ of habeas corpus against you," Frankfeld shouted as Dies ordered him from the stand.

The Communist witness turned to the press table nearby and astily distributed copies of the resolution he had tried to read.

Someones houted:

"Put him out of here; the diriy rat!"

Black Spade Trapped By His Sleep-Talking

By PAUL F. WHELTON

It was a dream—the workings of a troubled, subconscious mind—that turned up the confessed Black Spade bandit, it was learned today by the Boston Evening American as 22 holdup victims faced him in the largest police lineup in years.

"Who tipped you guys off?" Harold W. Hawbolt, 21-year-old South End youth, demanded when police raided his room and arrested him.

They didn't tell him that he had tipped himself off, that his uneasy mutterings as he slept had alarmed a fellow lodger.

In his sleep, Hawbolt, it was learned, was apparently re-living a holdup and kidnaping in detail.

"Stick 'em up and step out of the car," the startled fellow lodger heard a voice say in Hawbolt's room.

TRAPPED BY DREAM

"Turn around and keep 'em up there and don't make any outcry. The Black Spade is now working on you."

The lodger could visualize, in the pause, the bandit frisking his victim, for next the voice of the slumberer said:

"You got any hidden?"

Another pause, in which the victim might protest, perhaps, that the bandit had taken all the victim possessed. Then again the mumblings:

"All right. Get back in the car. Now drive me to . . ."

(There was apparently an address, but the words were lost.)

Again a pause, as if the car were

Doctor's Skill Saves Daughter's Fiance

The age-old drama of life and death—this time of a Boston surgeon who saved the life of his daughter's beloved—was enacted under the glaring lights of a hospital operating room today.

Today the principals were Dr. W. Russell MacAusland of Marlboro st., Back Bay; his daughter, Dorothy, and former Yale football star, John H. Castle, Jr., Miss MacAusland's fiance.

Castle, now a second-year student at the Harvard Business School, was on a skiing holiday at Littleton, N. H., when he was stricken with acute appendicitis yesterday.

DOCTOR TAKES PLANE

Littleton doctors said Castle's condition was critical, that his appendix might break at any moment, causing dread peritonitis.

The MacAusland family in Boston was notified and arrangements were made to rush young Castle by auto to Montpelier, Vt., while Dr. MacAusland and three nurses were flown there from Boston.

When he arrived there, Dr. MacAusland decided to fly the young man to Boston. The youth was put on a stretcher in the plane. Pilot Charles Cowan of Wiggin Airways flew the sick man, a nurse and Dr. MacAusland back to Boston.

GIRL WAITS NEAR

For an hour, through a driving rain and snow that obscured the ground, the plane roared its way back to Boston.

Dorothy MacAusland met the plane at the airport and rode in the ambulance to the Brooks Hospital in Brookline.

There, while she waited outside, Castle was wheeled into the operating room and her father and assistants performed the appendectomy that saved the young man's life.

Dr. MacAusland came into the waiting room and said to his daughter:

"Well—I guess he'll be all right."

Hospital officials later today said Castle was in excellent condition, and in no danger.

Dr. and Mrs. MacAusland announced their daughter's engagement to Castle last December. Dorothy made her debut in 1935-36 and is a member of the Vincent Club and Junior League.

Castle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Castle of Rochester, N. Y., and was graduated from Yale in 1938.

BULLETS FOIL FIRE BATTLE IN SAUGUS

The lives of a score of firemen were endangered as exploding cartridges held them at 100-yard range in a gun club fire, a total of 44 persons were obliged to flee for their lives and more than $30,000 damage was done in a series of six fires in Greater Boston today.

Melrose and Saugus firemen stood helplessly, gunshot range away, as flames that started in an oil storage room explosion raged through the Melrose Fish and Game Club building in Saugus, burning it to the ground.

Fred Kirstead, game keeper at the club and sole occupant of the building, escaped after he was aroused from sleep by the sound of rats squealing under the floor.

27 FLEE HOTEL FIRE

His way almost blocked by flames, he covered his face with a wet towel and ran down a smoke-filled hallway, then drove his car two miles to turn in an alarm.

More than 20,000 rounds of exploding shotgun, rifle and revolver ammunition held firemen off.

Fire officials estimated damage at 20,000.

In Stoneham 27 guests in the 85-year-old wooden Stoneham Hotel building escaped when smoke from a small fire on the first floor filled the three-story building.

Fire officials said lucky discovery of the blaze by Mrs. Mary Smith and her daughter, Mary, just after it started, saved the structure.

3 WOMEN RESCUED

Mrs. Nellie Keegan, 63; Mrs. Hattie Edmands, 82, and Miss Della Crosby, 57, occupants of top floor rooms, were led to safety by Walter Fogg and Stanley Sands, other roomers.

Henry Silisbee, Jr., 12, recovering from pneumonia, was carried from his home in Brookline st., Lynn, by his father when fire starting in the cellar swept the lower floor of their home. Mrs. Silisbee also fled. Firemen estimated damage there at $1500.

Another Lynn fire, in the temporarily vacant home of Joseph Turkowski in Canal st., did $2900 damage.

FAMILY LED OUT

Three families, including 15 persons, were routed when flames swept their homes in Jamaica Plain and downtown Boston.

Led to safety by Policemen Joseph Corrigan and Philip Brennen were Edward J. Casey, Boston attorney; his wife and family, Ralph, 27; Warren, 26; Howard, 21, and Gertrude, 18, when fire broke out in their home on Pond st., Jamaica Plain.

Damage there was $4500.

Fire of undetermined origin drove two families out of a three-story wooden tenement in Edgerly pl., South End, and for a time threatened the entire thickly-settled area.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mariano and their children, Patricia, 5; Betty, 3, and Peter, 15 months, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Douglas and their children, Edward, 17, and Jeanette, 8, made their way to safety.

For two hours firemen fought that fire in heavy smoke that spread through the South End night club district.

Laycock, Dartmouth Dean Emeritus, Dies

HANOVER, N. H., April 4 (AP)—Craven Laycock, 70, dean emeritus of Dartmouth College, with which he had been connected for 42 years, died suddenly today.

A native of Bradford, Yorkshire, Eng., he came to America in 1882. He was graduated from Tilton Seminary in 1892 and from Dartmouth four years later. An instructor in public speaking from 1897 to 1900 he was assistant professor until 1910 when he became full professor.

PINK SLIP EVADERS WORRY BAY STATE CENSUS CHIEFS

Thousands of unanswered pink slips left behind by enumerators gave officials of the 1940 census their greatest worry today.

In both Massachusetts and Maine, there were out-and-out revolts to contend with but it was the evaders which appeared likely to delay final tabulations.

Many a wife or mother apparently had been well coached on what to tell the enumerator when the important "how much do you earn" question was reached.

Invariably, the womenfolk answer:

"I'm sorry, but I can't tell you how much my husband and son earn."

Then, out comes the pink slip and the enumerator is faced with a return trip—perhaps trouble.

Other questions which womenfolk are not answering fully, it was learned, are such matters as their husband's education—unless, of course, he happens to be well educated.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK

It was a case of whistling in the dark for officials in the matter of the ever-mounting number of pink slips passed out. They don't know yet how many will be filled out and be ready; how many will insist that the information he forwarded personally to Washington and how many more will unmask real strikers.

Massachusetts' No. 1 rebel was a Lowell man whom officials refused to name.

E. Francis O'Day, Lowell supervisor, stated the man would not answer the questions. He said he was ready to be taken to court at any time.

"I won't answer any snooping questions," the Lowell striker was quoted as saying.

"We'll make a second call on the fellow after a few days and see if he has cooled off," O'Day said. "Perhaps he'll be affected by the full-hearted co-operation that other Lowell citizens are giving."

Another striker, John Ware, Waterville, Me., lumberman, went into superior court seeking an injunction against answering such questions as income, education and the matter of toilet facilities in his home. A hearing is scheduled Monday.

In Somerville two more enumerators quit.

"They reported that their 'dogs' couldn't take it," Supervisor Charles T. Daly stated.

In Newton, however, Catherine O'Grady of Page rd., a girl enumerator whose "dogs" evidently could take it, got curious as to how much they were "taking."

Consequently she placed a pedometer on her trim ankle and at 4 p. m. yesterday announced that she had walked a little short of four miles.

"Half of it up and half of it down stairs," she laughed.

"Go look at the animal yourself."

"Boss," the census taker pleaded, "I don't think I'd be much help. I'm a city chap myself."

HOWD'Y'DO!—Catherine O'Grady goes a-walking on the job and here greets a census 'victim.' He smiles, seemingly willing to answer questions.

MEASURE — Catherine O'Grady, census enumerator, wants to know how far she walks on job . . . so she wears a pedometer (arrow).

City Census Man Must Know Bull! So Store Is Farm

PHILADELPHIA, April 4 (AP)—A census enumerator at a farm in suburban Bridesburg asked the housewife what livestock was on the place.

"We have one cow," she replied.

"That's no cow," her husband interrupted. "It's a bull."

Stalemated, the enumerator telephoned his supervisor for advice and was told:

ed, "I don't think I'd be much help. I'm a city chap myself."

N. Y. STORE A FARM

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Census takers discovered today that a department store in the heart of Manhattan must be classified as a farm as well as a business establishment.

A seventh-floor greenhouse at Bloomingdale's, 59th st. and Lexington ave., raises more than $250 worth of "agricultural products" a year. This makes it a "farm" for census purposes.

CENSUS FAKES CUT FEE

CINCINNATI, April 4 (AP) — 'Census enumerators' who collected three cents from each person contacted were at work here today.

Census Supervisor Joseph Timberman said two of his workers encountered difficulty in their districts when residents reported they "already answered" questions pertaining to the count and had paid the questioners at the rate of three cents for each member of the household.

Bonafide workers are paid four cents a head—by the government.

Hold Youth Seized in Wild Chase

FALL RIVER, April 4—Captured at gunpoint after he had smashed a stolen Boston auto in an 85-mile-an-hour dash through this city's business district, a youthful auto thief from North Easton was held for the grand jury here today.

The accused, Ralph S. Johnson, 18, was revealed as under suspended sentence to state prison for an auto theft in Plymouth last October.

In Second District Court he pleaded guilty to charges of auto larceny, reckless driving and driving without a license.

Judge Benjamin Cook fined him $50 on each of the minor charges and held him in $10,000 bail on the larceny count.

The probation officer said Johnson was given a two-and-a-half-to-three-year prison sentence in Plymouth in October, but the penalty was suspended until 1942.

Johnson was arrested in the chase by State Trooper Arthur Brun of the Rehoboth barracks.

Driving with one hand and shooting his service revolver with the other, the officer risked his life in the break-neck pursuit that ended when Johnson crashed his car in a vacant lot.

15 Unhurt as Plane Plunges Over Bank

PITTSBURGH, April 4 (AP)—Twelve passengers and a crew of three escaped injury when a 14-ton Transcontinental and Western air skyliner overshot the Allegheny County airport and was blown down a 15-foot embankment by a heavy gale last night.

The plane slid into a bramble patch, shearing off the landing gear and damaging a propeller. TWA officials estimated damage at $5000.

Girl, 15, Missing In Dorchester

Glowing with joy over her confirmation, 15-year-old Gladys Turner twirled in her new white dress, at her home in Clayton st., Dorchester, and joked with her mother about how "good looking" she was. Then she blew a kiss, walked out the door intending to visit a neighbor.

This was at 6 p. m. yesterday, only a few hours after her confirmation in St. Ambrose Church, Dorchester.

At 10 p. m. Mrs. Turner began to worry, because Gladys seldom stayed out after 9 or went any place other than to the movies. At 1 a. m., the anxious mother notified police.

This morning, Gladys was still missing. She is brown haired, brown eyed, 120 pounds, 5 feet 2 inches, wearing her confirmation dress and a spring coat.

SENORA ORTIZ DEAD

BUENOS AIRES, April 4 (INS)—Senora Maria Luisa Ortiz, wife of the Argentine President, is dead today.

EAT RAGWEED, 'CURE' HAY FEVER

CLEVELAND, April 4—People who said they helped their hay fever by eating clover honey in the spring and chewing ragwood leaves in the summer received medical justification today at the American College of Physicians.

This curious legend was investigated by the allergy clinic of the University of Hospitals of Cleveland, with the result that eating pollen was tried as a medical remedy and found quite effective.

One hundred and thirty hay fever victims acted as the guinea pigs. About half of them took injections of the ragweed pollen, which is a standard method of relieving hay fever, while the other half swallowed capsules filled with the same pollen.

As a result 63 per cent of the pollen eaters were helped considerably, 24 per cent had fair relief and 13 per cent were not relieved at all. This was almost as good as the results of the regular vaccination method, where 70 per cent experienced considerable relief, 19 fair and 11 none.

The capsule method had one advantage. It was easy to take a capsule every day or two, whereas the vaccination requires going to the doctors or the hospital to be scratched with a needle anywhere from 15 to 30 times.

The clinic physicians said there is still a medical controversy over the pollen-eating method, less than a dozen physicians having tested the method.

When taken in a capsule, 100 times as much pollen must be given as by hypodermic needle. However, the 100 times multiplication only fills a pill that is small enough to swallow easily.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

CHEF SOBS IN CUSTODY SUIT

Overcome by emotion as he spoke his love for his five children, Philip Nichols, chef at the Silver Dollar Bar, wept today on the witness stand in probate court, where he seeks the children's custody.

Philip Nichols

Eight weeks ago, his wife, blonde Mrs. Jessie N. Nichols of Pembroke st., South End, was denied a divorce by Judge John V. Mahoney when she admitted she already had a husband when she married Nichols in 1924, telling him she was a widow.

At that time, Judge Mahoney advised Nichols to apply for custody of the children, two girls, 13 and 11 years, and three boys, 9, 7 and5 years old.

On the witness stand today, Nichols asserted his wife was "friendly and intimate with a man called Chick, and that the eldest daughter had told of what went on at the Nichols home.

TOLD OF DISGRACE

"She told me the house was disgraced," said Nichols, speaking of 13-year-old Phyllis, "and about the kind of men and women who walked into the house. I scolded her because I said, after all, it was her mother."

Judge Mahoney had instructed that Phyllis and her sister, Irene Ann, be taken into his lobby before the father's testimony. The boys were not present in court.

The chef testified he formerly conducted a restaurant in the South End and that his wife drank and "went out every night in the week."

When he would lock up the restaurant and go upstairs to his home, he said, he would find the three boys falling asleep in chairs or on the floor and the house "filthy."

ORDERED DRUNKS OUT

His wife, he said, would come home drunk as late as 2 or 3 a. m.

South End Wife, Denied Divorce, Battles Mate for Custody of Children

The climax came, according to the husband, when she became friendly with the man Chick.

Asked what type of persons visited his home, Nichols replied:

"People who never worked. They drank. I saw them drunk. They raised Cain. I ordered women out of the house a good many times. They were drunk."

On many occasions, he said, he and his eldest daughter had to undress the boys and give them baths, because his wife was out.

"I love my children," he said, and the tears began to roll down his cheeks. "I would do everything in the world for them."

His wife has the children, Nichols explained, and he is living with a married sister in Lamartine st., Jamaica Plain. Although the married sister has four children of her own, she is willing, he said, to also care for his five.

Under cross-examination Nichols testified he had not sent his wife money for support of the children since the separation last September because she has insurance money collected on her first husband, who did not die until 1934.

Asked if he would be willing to take the three boys, but allow his wife to have the two girls, he shook his head and said:

"I want the five children. I love them."

President's Mother Ill

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 4 (AP)—Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's mother, rested at the Chelsea Hotel today, recuperating from "a bad cold."

Joel Hillman, hotel manager, said, "Mrs. Roosevelt asked that her visit here be kept quiet because she wants complete rest."

Today she arose early, ate a fairly hearty breakfast, and said she felt "much better."

Nab Watchers Watchman

The man who watched the watchman in a Roxbury brewery wasn't watchful enough today.

So the watchman called police, and the watchman's watcher was grabbed from his place of concealment in the brewery's shadows.

"I thought I heard a prowler, and I guess that's him," the watchman said.

But the man who watched the watchman told a different story. He is an undercover snooper for the firm, he said, and he's been snooping nightly in the plant for four weeks past.

Police checked and double-checked—and found the watchman's watcher's tale was true.

Only problem that remained was: Who'd be on the job tonight, the watchful watchman, the watcher of the watchman or both?

Heiress Vanishes; Fear Kidnap Plot

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS)—A court fight over a $180,000 fortune, mysterious 'phone calls and a slangy and misspelled letter—all were jumbled today in the baffling disappearance of Sylvia Ladd von Gontard, 20-year-old heiress.

While police believed the curly-haired girl left home because of despondency and her mother spoke weepingly of "kidnaping," a definite clue indicated that at least one other person was involved in the strange case.

This clue is a letter received by the mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ladd von Gontard of the Hotel Weylin, 40 E. 54th st., Wednesday. The girl disappeared Tuesday afternoon after calling at the office of a White Plains lawyer in connection with litigation over the estate.

BRAND LETTER FRAUD

The leter was signed Sylvia, but, according to the mother, was not in her daughter's handwriting. Bert Erit, a private detective, said the letter, dated Feb. 2, 1940, contained the word "scram" and "situation" was spelled "cituation."

"Miss Von Gontard never used slang, and certainly she knew how to spell," Erit said.

The letter follows:

"Dear Mother:

"Do not worry about me. I am all right. I got tired of waiting for those darned old lawyers. You know I had an appointment with them at 4, and they did not show up until about 5 or 5:15, and Mr. McChristie, the G's friend, told me to wait outside, and I did until 5:45, and decided I did not have all night, and I decided to scram.

"I am tired of the ways things have been going, so I decided also a situation like this needed a drastic cure, so I decided ot make the cure now. You know, like a cancer that has to be cut out . . . I hope and think and expect everything will turn out for the better in the end. Lots of love, and do not worry.

"Your loving daughter.

"Sylvia."

IS STILL ALIVE

A postscript read:

"I am still alive and will remain so."

The letter was in a small personal envelope, addressed in the same handwriting. It was mailed in Manhattan at 10 p. m., Tuesday. Although the envelope bore a post-office cancellation there was no stamp on it nor the usual notice of "2 cents postage due."

Detectives were called in after Mrs. Von Gontard received the letter, and they took it to the police crime laboratory, together with samples of Sylvia's handwriting.

"My daughter telephoned me at 4:30, 5:20 and 5:40 p. m.," the mother said today. "The last time she said, 'I'm not staying another minute. I'm coming right home to you.'

"Then the receiver was banged down as though someone else had grabbed it. I'm sure they took her away to keep her out of court."

Mrs. von Gontard would not say who "they" are.

According to Erit, Sylvia's father, Alexander Carl Friedrich von Gontard, coffee and sugar importer, died in China in 1936, leaving a trust fund to his wife.

The estate was said to be valued at $180,000 in 1936. According to Mrs. von Gontard, it has depreciated.

There was to have been a hearing today in White Plains Supreme Court. Tuesday Sylvia had gone to see James E. Dempsey, attorney, who had been recommended to represent her by Monroe J. Cahn, also of White Plains, her guardian ad litem.

Strike Threat Perils N. Y. Circus Opening

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS)—A new strike threat hung over the "big top" today.

Roustabouts and other non-performing employes of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus scheduled to open here tomorrow authorized the executive board of the newly organized Circus, Carnival, Fair and Rodeo International Union, and A. F. of L. affiliate, to call the strike if the circus management refuses to sign an agreement.

A strike of the same workers two years ago forced the circus to cut short its tour.

Pope to Canonize 2 New Saints in May

VATICAN CITY, April 4 (AP)—Pope Pius today set for May 2 the canonization of two new saints, Mother Mary Euphrasia Pelletier of France, founder of the Good Shepherds for the Care and Protection of Young Girls, and Gemma Galgani, Italian girl known as the Virgin of Lucca.

Both were beatified in 1933.

PICK G.O.P. DELEGATES IN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., April 4 (INS)—Marked by the bustling activity of its younger element, the Republican party of Maine today met in state convention to choose delegates to the Republican national convention.

The young Republicans announced they want three of their number named as delegates.

Traditionally Maine sends its 13 delegates to the national convention unpledged. It is forecast, however, that the delegates will cast their first ballots for Sen. H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire for President.

Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey of New York received little attention in the convention gossip, even though he was given a good reception on his recent visit to Maine.

Landon Warns G. O. P. Not to Seek Super-Man

WICHITA, Kan., April 4 (AP)—Alf M. Landon, confident that 1940 "is our year," cautioned the nation's Republicans today against seeking a "super-man" for President and counseled "we make generals from colonels who have shown outstanding ability."

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee, in an address prepared for the State Republican Convention, urged that the rank-and-file have the final word at the Philadelphia National Convention.

"Our Republican convention must not be the boss-ridden kind that the Democratic convention will be," he said.

"We must not permit one man, or any group of money-raisers, to pick our nominee."

DEALERS HAPPY, FOES SEE 3D TERM BEATEN

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, April 4 (INS)—In the face of opposition belief that the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries show President Roosevelt cannot win a third term, New Dealers were happy today over the results of their drive to keep him in the White House.

Third term advocates pointed joyfully to the President's record in winning delegates. They stressed his capture of all eight New Hampshire delegates, all 10 in Maine, 86 in New York (with eight more promised) and 22 out of 24 in Wisconsin. This give the President 134 out of the 136 Democratic delegates so far named.

DEFEAT PREDICTED

Foes of the third term dismissed the President's success. They conceded the President can be renominated easily, but contended the primaries in New Hampshire and Wisconsin disclosed that he has lost his great popularity with the electorate and will be defeated if he seeks a third term.

The anti-third termers pointed to the New Hampshire results, in which the President won only one-fourth as many votes as were given the G. O. P. favorite son, Sen. H. Styles Bridges. They pointed to the Wisconsin results, in which the Republican votes, plus those cast for Vice-President John N. Garner, were more than 100,000 in excess of the Roosevelt total.

MARTIN SEES G. O. P. SWING

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes was cheerful over the results. He said:

"I have been confident that both Roosevelt slates would came out ahead of the opposition's single slate in Wisconsin, and the result bore out this opinion. It fulfilled the most sanguine expectations of those who feel that this country wants President Roosevelt."

Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said:

"The New Hampshire and Wisconsin balloting surely show that the third term cause cannot prevail. And the Wisconsin voting indicates the whole farm belt is Republican this year."

Mrs. F. D. Signs Radio Contract

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will become a radio commentator April 28, in a nationally-broadcast program, Franklin Bruck, head of the advertising agency bearing his name, has announced.

Bruck said Mrs. Roosevelt had signed a year's contract to broadcast twice weekly from 1:15-1:30 p. m. (EST) on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and that the program would be carried over the combined networks of the National Broadcasting Company.

Her program, Bruck explained, will be similar to the daily newspaper column she now writes, although she is expected to have "guest stars" from time to time. She will be sponsored by a New York soap company.

High Canada Post For Earl of Athlone

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—The Earl of Athlone, brother of Queen Mother Mary and a former governor-general of the Union of South Africa, has been appointed governor-general of Canada to succeed the late Lord Tweedsmuir. The tall, soldierly earl, who will be 66 on April 14, is expected to leave for Canada in two or three weeks, accompanied by his countess, Princess Alice, a grand-daughter of Queen Victoria.

EARL OF ATHLONE

A Buckingham Palace announcement said that King George VI was "graciously pleased" to approve the appointment of his uncle, a football enthusiast and big game hunter and veteran of military service in India and in the Boer and World Wars.

The Earl actually was appointed to the Ottawa post once before, in 1914 just before the World War broke out. When war came, however the appointment was cancelled to enable him to serve in the army.

PRINCESS ALICE

He was mentioned as a possible candidate for the post five years ago when it went to Lord Tweedsmuir, and again recently after Lord Tweedsmuir's death Feb. 11, which resulted from a head injury suffered in a fall.

As governor-general of Canada, the Earl will be the personal representative of the British King. He served in this capacity in South Africa from 1893 to 1931.

Michigan Governor Loses Court Battle

LANSING, Mich., April 4 (AP)—The State Supreme Court has ruled that Gov. Luren D. Dickinson was without authority to suspend Duncan C. McCrea, prosecuting attorney of Wayne County (Detroit) pending an ouster hearing on charges of connivance with the underworld.

Get U. S. in War As Ally, Plea of Canada Official

CANNINGTON, Ont., April 4 (AP)—Canadians were urged last night to do all in their power to bring the United States into the war beside the Allies—whose success against Germany otherwise "may ge very doubtful."

A clear declaration of policy by the United States of her intention to enter the conflict, Atty.-Gen. Gordon Conant of the Ontario provincial government declared, "would materially affect the whole situation, probably to the extent of bringing an end to hostilities."

British-French success, he told a gathering of farmers and businessmen, "may be very doubtful unless active participation of the United States is made effective at an early date."

He praised as forthright the March 19 speech in Toronto of United States Minister James H. R. Cromwell. Cromwell's speech markedly sympathetic to the allies, caused a furore in the United States and brought a rebuke from Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

In the event of United States entry into the war, he contended, Germany would see "the futility of her mad project.

"I am confident that she would seek an early peace rather than risk the ultimate extermination that would be her fate. But time is an important factor," he declared.

Enjoy the Feel of a GROWN-UP ENGINE!

Own an "8," not just a "6"
Get top economy, too!

More miles per gallon than any other standard-equipped car at its price . . . that's the amazing record of the big, 85 h.p. Ford V-8 in this year's official, impartial Gilmore-Yosemite EconomyRun! Also . . . Ford owners report no oil added between regular changes.

YOU don't even have to "look under the hood" to know that the Ford V-8 engine is the greatest engine ever offered in a low-priced car! When every maker of fine cars in America today uses 8 or more cylinders, that fact becomes important. And the "feel" of this engine under your toe will tell you in a minute why it is important!

It takes an "8" to match an "8"! And it takes a Ford to match that engine with such big-car quality throughout! With a level, gentle big-car ride that's one of the year's big surprises. With greater knee-room than in any other low-priced car. With the kind of clutch and gearshift and drive that cars far higher-priced use and boast of.

You don't want to miss what this car has! See a Ford Dealer and save money!

Cabinet Reshuffle Stirs British Anger

are disappointing. The reconstruction is extremely partial. The prime minister is content to move well-worn pawns about in a manner which seems, in some instances, almost capricious."

The Guardian expressed wonderment at what it called Chamberlain's "so unimaginative choice of men."

The London Daily Mail had this to say:

"The prime minister still declines to appoint a small, compact war cabinet. His decision arouses profound disappointment.

"Demand for a real war cabinet will grow and is bound to be granted if the war drags on."

Even the sedate Times of London, which ordinarily supports a conservative government, commented caustically:

"The cabinet changes look indeed at first sight like an elaborate game of puss-in-corner."

The Times urged a smaller war cabinet and the Daily Mirror flatly accused Chamberlain of refusing to bring new blood into the government. The Mirror also pointed out that critics of the government were kept out of office.

One influential newspaper, Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, however, expressed general approval of the changes, but nevertheless added:

"There are still men in the government who ought to be out. Some failures are still at their posts and some bad spots remain."

CHURCHILL WAR HEAD

The shift appeared most important in the manner in which it affected the status of Churchill, who now will preside as senior service minister over a war strategy committee composed of the three heads of the fighting services plus the army, navy and air force chiefs of staff.

A second change of major importance was appointment of Sir Samuel Hoare as air secretary, replacing Sir Kingsley Wood, who assumed the post of lord privy seal. Sir Samuel twice before has served as air secretary, and his appointment is regarded as popular with the men of the air force.

Lord Chatfield resigned as minister for coordination of defense and that post was discontinued. It was assumed that Churchill will take over the defense coordination work in addition to his admiralty duties.

Chamberlain in an official statement described the cabinet shuffle as a move to "achieve the best team work in war time."

Step to Ruthless Warfare, Says Berlin

BERLIN, April 4 (INS)—Appointment of Winston Churchill as virtual war dictator of Britain was viewed by authoritative German quarters today as a new step toward 'ruthless warfare.'

Responsible sources in Berlin accepted the new authority vested in Churchill as an endorsement that the Anglo-French allies now will wage war "wit all means at their disposal against all nations not in the Allied camp."

At the same time, authentic quarters stressed the view that the cabinet shake-up represents official British support of Churchill's campaign to "starve out Germany by means of the blockade and to coerce neutral nations."

Berlin newspapers published the new cabinet lineup under glaring headlines. Der Angriff, organ of Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, predicted:

"Intensification of the war!"

A streamer headline in Nachtausgabe told its readers:

"The western powers are planning coercive action against neutral nations."

Hitler Missed Victory Bus, Says Chamberlain

trals had hampered the Allies' blockade but warned:

"It cannot be expected that we should allow Germany indefinitely to profit by our scrupulousness and to draw aid and comfort from neutrals who are not free agents and who know in their hearts, whatever they may say, that our victory spells freedom for them whereas our defeat would doom them to slavery."

WANTS CRITICISM FRIENDLY

He said he believed that never before in all Great Britain's history had the nation been "so completely united on the broad aims of our policy and upon our determination to carry on this fight until we have achieved our purpose."

He praised the decision of the political parties to lay aside party strife as far as possible "in order to concentrate on winning the war."

"I do not claim that the government should be exempt from criticism," he declared, "but I do feel that as we are all agreed as to what we want out of this war the government of the day is entitled to claim general support for its war policy.

"We must admit—I do admit—that we have not yet succeeded in so bringing work and workers together as to make full use of our existing manpower," Chamberlain said.

"That means we have not reached our full strength. We are making great efforts to do so."

Of Germany's failure to strike hard at the beginning Chamberlain declared:

"It might have been that Hitler thought that he might get away with what he had got without fighting for it or . . . that, after all, preparations were not sufficiently completed."

He declared Germany "has not any real friend in the world."

Tell Americans To Quit Belgium

LONDON, April 4 (INS)—American Ambassador John Cudahy has advised all Americans to leave Belgium, the Daily Telegraph reported from Brussels. Cudahy pointed out that Americans remaining in Belgium "do so at their own risk," the newspaper stated.

This warning followed shortly after Field Marshal Goering's statement in Berlin that Adolf Hitler has his forces ready to strike in the west.

LONDON, April 4 (INS)—Hurried construction of new hospitals throughout Germany today led to the report that the Nazi army plans a gigantic onslaught on the Maginot line, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam in the London News Chronicle.

Nazi Ship Hesitates To Run Blockade

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia, April 4 (AP)—The German freighter Ankara, loaded with 4000 tons of bauxite, today delayed her scheduled sailing for Trieste because of the rumored presence of British warships in the Adriatic.

The Ankara hoped to stay within neutral coastal waters and open up a blockade-proof route to the Italian port of Trieste, whence supplies could be shipped overland to Germany.

U. S. FLEET GAMES IRE JAPANESE

TOKYO, April 4 (INS)—The United States' naval war games in the Pacific seem like "brandishing a big sword near Japan and therefore are liable to inflame Japanese sentiments," a Japanese naval spokesman declared today.

Units of the American fleet already are en route to participate in the maneuvers, which have been described as the most important since World War days.

Referring to reports that Britain is planning a naval Pacific blockade against shipments to Germany via the Russian port of Vladivostok, the spokesman stated that Japan would oppose such a procedure.

He declared the sea of Japan, while not technically Japanese territorial waters, is actually a "Japanese lake" and that the Japanese government would strongly object to any extension of the European war to Far Eastern waters.

The spokesman added that in the event of any "illegal action" the Japanese Navy would have to "take measures."

Youths in Court After Car Chase

FALL RIVER, April 4—Captured after a lengthy chase that ended in a crash amid a hail of police bullets, four youths were due to be arraigned in district court here today.

State Trooper Arthur H. Bruno said he gave chase at speeds reaching 80 miles an hour when the car, almost brand new and reported stolen in Boston, failed to halt at his signal.

Says Gangster Films Hurt U. S.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 4 (AP)—America's gangsters, as portrayed in America's motion pictures, have put America's diplomats on the spot, 3000 teachers attending the Inland Empire Education Association convention were told here by Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, former minister to Denmark.

"It is embarrassing at times," she said. "Pictures of gunmen and crime, which we in America accept as fiction, are regarded by Europeans as illustrating actual life in America. I wish American motion picture producers would leave their pictures at home."

In another address Playwright Channing Pollock probed for faults in the American system and its educational program and asserted that the "chief trouble with American youth is that its father had too much money.

"It is not only unemployment we are supporting in idleness. It is the millions in kid glove occupations, he said. "One of the troubles with education is that it spoils so many good truck drivers."

Byrd Reports So. Pole Moved

PUNTA ARENAS, Chile, April 4 (AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd said here today, the South Magnetic Pole had moved in a westerly direction since he discovered it in 1929.

He said he attempted, on his present expedition, to fly over the pole again, but was unable to do so because of its location atop high plateaus.

He added he had discovered four mountain ranges in Antarctica which hitherto were unknown.

Byrd, en route to the United States, came here Monday on his flagship, the Bear, and reported that in five flights over Antarctic regions the United States government expedition had discovered lands not shown on existing maps

Emerson to Debate Third Term Issue

The third term issue will be discussed tonight by debaters from the University of Connecticut and Emerson College at a unique dinner-debate at the Emerson College residence at 373 Commonwealth ave.

Emerson will take the negative side of the question, and their team will consist of Lorraine Anne Canney and Irma Sims. Professor Grover C. Shaw of Emerson arranged the debate.

50,000 Jews Ready For 'Suicide Army'

"On 24-hour notice, 50,000 Jewish suicide troops stand ready to take up arms against the Nazis," said Joshua Farbstein, economic adviser to the Jewish Agency in Palestine, in a press interview at the Hotel Statler.

Farbstein, a prominent Zionist who arrived in this country a short while ago to appeal to American Jews for funds to help emigres establish themselves in Palestine, was formerly a member of the Polish Parliament, and president of the Polish Merchants Association.

He lauded President Roosevelt, as the only political leader who had raised his voice against the brutal persecution of the Jewish people.

"Here in America," he said, you have an Animal Rescue League, that prevents cruelty to animals, but nowhere in the world has there been a sustained protest against the cruelty suffered by my people."

In discussing the attempts of Britain to restrict Jewish immigration to Palestine, Farbstein declared:

"No decrees, whether political or economic will discourage the upbuilding of the Jewish National Home.

"God's words to Abraham, 'This land shall I give to your people,' are stronger than British decrees."

Continuing his discussion of the mandate entrusted to Britain, he said

"Britain has broken her pledge that the political situation in Palestine will remain in status quo during the war. The only answer American Jewry can give is to support the United Jewish appeal, which embraces the Jewish National Fund in the purchase of new land in Palestine."

Shot, Names Phantom Alcatraz Escapers

TULSA, April 4 (AP)—A taxicab driver told officers here that two men—one of whom he identified as Ted Cole, fugitive from "escape proof" Alcatraz prison—abducted him and that Cole shot him.

Critically wounded, the driver, Don Calvin, 34, said he recognized the Oklahoma desperado from newspaper pictures.

His story touched off a renewed search for Cole who with Ralph Roe, another Oklahoma bandit, disappeared from the grim island prison in San Francisco Bay in December, 1937.

Cole and Roe both were reported seen in this area yesterday.

Calvin, shot in the side, told a fragmentary story at the hospital.

"Ted Cole shot me. I knew him because of the pictures I've seen in the papers. He and the other man held a gun on me all the way up here from the hotel and shot me when they told me to stop."

Cole and Roe generally were believed to have perished in the waters of San Francisco bay after their disappearance from Alcatraz.

However, yesterday police Lieut. Linn O. Moss said two hitchhikers reported they had been given a ride by a motorist who said he was Roe, and that he and the driver of an accompanying car "escaped from the Rock."

Once before, also, Cole and Roe had been reported alive. Last July, Earl Meguire, sentenced at Syracuse, Kas., to life imprisonment for slaying an undersheriff, told of having played poker with them a week before at Pueblo, Colo.

N. H. FIRE SKELETON MYSTERY

BETHLEHEM, N. H., April 4—A mystery as baffling as it is bizarre today loomed over the discovery of parts of a human skeleton in a home swept by fire.

Authorities refuse to accept for identity of the bones William St. Pierre, 30, owner of the house who has been missing since the fire broke out early Sunday morning.

His wife, Frances, 30, told police she was away for the week-end and learned of the fire and absence of her husband only on her return.

That the bones may be those of a woman was admitted as a possibility by County Solicitor Hazen K. Sturtevant, who said they will be examined by Ralph E. Miller, state pathologist.

Closest neighbors to the lonely farmhouse about three miles from this town reported seeing no women or other visitors on Saturday. The couple, who had no children, entertained frequently.

The house was demolished, but Trevole St. Clair, poking through the ruins in the basement, found part of a skull, arm and leg bones, ribs and spinal section. They were near the ruins of a bed and beneath the sleeping quarters.

Refusing to attribute death to foul play, the Grafton county officials pressed search for St. Pierre and awaited a description of the victim and other definite information from the pathologist.

SINKING OF THE BRITISH SUB THETIS IN WHICH 99 LIVES WERE LOST
Official Report Today Reveals Cause of Tragic Marine Disaster

Solon Offers Plan To Check U.S. Debt

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Amid waning economy hopes, Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said today that President Roosevelt could keep the national debt below the $45,000,000,000 limit ever, if congressional spending tops that figure.

"The President merely could order departments not to spend a percentage of their appropriations," Sen. Barkley told reporters. "That practice has been followed in the past, and it would eliminate the necessity for increasing the debt limit or raising new taxes this year."

The suggestion came at a moment when the riddled economy program faced a new bombardment in demands for a $500,000,000 boost in the budget recommendation for a billion dollar WPA fund.

A House appropriations subcommittee tackled the subject today calling WPA Commissioner Harrington for questioning about relief needs.

Congressional agreement to a $500,000,000 relief increase would be a heavy blow to Mr. Roosevelt's budget estimates. Although the House and Senate have undercut his figures for some items, they are in the process of voting bigger funds for others.

Despite pressure in some quarters for a big relief fund boost, the House subcommittee served notice that it had no intention of exceeding the budget estimate without a direct recommendation by the President if then.

The House met an hour earlier than usual today in an effort to complete action by nightfall on the $785,999,094 War Department appropriation. Carrying approximately $103,710,000 fo. new weapons, additional seacoast defenses and 57 more airplanes, the bill's total was $67,357,660 less than Mr. Roosevelt recommended and $65,474,151 below the army's funds for the current year.

Blame Loss of Thetis On Series of Mischances

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—An official report today blamed the sinking of the submarine Thetis last June 1 in the Irish sea, with loss of 99 lives, on "many mischances which almost conspired to lose the Thetis in a sea of trouble."

The Thetis sinking was the second in a series of three disasters occurring in rapid succession to undersea craft of major naval powers, the United States submarine Squalus and the French Phenix being the other victims.

Six facts in sequence "produced the full extent of the disaster," the report said. They were:

First, a bit of enamel blocked a test cock in the rear door of No. 5 torpedo tube.

Second, as a result, a rear door opened while the bow cap was open to the sea which was "suicidal," the precise moment when the bow cap opened was the most critical and obscure point in the case.

Third, the crew of the Thetis failed to close the port watertight door in the bulkhead between the torpedo tube compartment and the torpedo stowage compartment.

Fourth, the crew was unable to expel water from the two flooded compartments.

Fifth, rescuers failed to render "effective assistance" chiefly through "failure to locate her position during 16 hours from 3 p. m., June 1, to 7:50 p. m., June 2."

Sixth, those inside were unable to escape by the Davis apparatus which saved only four of the 103 aboard.

STEAL OFFICER'S CAR

Thieves today stole the private automobile of Patrolman John Van-Denberg, parked close to the South Boston police station, raced down Old Colony Parkway and crashed into a telegraph pole. The occupants fled.

Spy Guard Put On at Fore River

Fears of sabotage aroused by discovery of 66 harmless sticks of dried dynamite in Weymouth were met today with disclosures that the biggest counter espionage campaign in the East is centered on safeguarding the Fore River shipyards.

Workmen with access to the $130,000,000 worth of warships under construction are being carefully watched by Federal operatives. More than a score are definitely under surveillance, it was stated.

Details for complete cooperation between local police and the Federal men were worked out at a conference between United States Attorney Edmund J. Brandon, Virgil W. Peterson, New England head of the G-Men and District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing.

Chief target for sabotage, officials fear, may be the new airplane carrier Wasp, now almost ready for commission after shakedown and test runs.

Others are the battleship Massachusetts, two destroyers and a cruiser.

Concern was expressed over the large quantities of dynamite kept in Quincy for use particularly at the quarries. Police Captain George W. Fallon of Quincy has ordered a check on all such explosives with detailed account of safety devices.

At the naval ammunition depot in Hingham, several additional navy officers have been assigned to similar investigation and precautionary work

BIG SAVING FROM NEW TRAIN RUN

Elimination of 16 trains on the summer schedule of the New Haven railroad will save $100,000 a year on the Old Colony line, C. E. Smith, vice-president, estimated today in a paper filed with the State Public Utilities Commission.

Trains carrying the largest number of passengers will not be affected and actual decrease in accommodations will amount to less than 10 per cent, the commission was told

The new schedule, effective April 28, calls for slashes in the lines between Boston and West Roxbury, Dedham, Blackstone, North Easton, New Bedford and Fall River.

Residents of the affected cities and towns expressed the opinion last night that this reduction is merely an entering wedge for future abandonment of service. They plan to demand a public hearing.

Atty. Gen. Paul E. Dever declared the New Haven railroad is charging off excessive expenses against its subsidiary, the Old Colony railroad.

Dedham will have five trains a day instead of seven and Blackstone will have eight trains a day instead of 10. The Fall River-Myrics branch will be given four trains a day instead of six.

Vice-President Smith said the Canton-North Easton branch reports a loss of $93,625 a year, the Fall River-Myricks branch $53,706 and the Boston-New Bedford line a loss of $174,783.

Brother Attorneys Battle Bar Charges

Samuel and Joseph Stern, Boston attorneys and brothers, today were called to resume their battle in court to clear themselves of charges they solicited cases in violation of the rules of the legal profession.

Charges brought by the Bar Association of Boston and being heard before Judge Louis S. Cox were supported by testimony of several witnesses.

Mrs. Pauline Zupkofska of Dacia st., Roxbury, testified that on April 24, 1937, when her 14-year-old son was taken to City Hospital as a result of an automobile accident on Blue Hill ave., her daughter, Mrs. Vada, went into a laundry to call a taxi for her and her mother.

She testified the proprietor of the laundry told Mrs. Vada there were two automobiles available and it was not necessary to call a taxi.

DOCTOR NAMED

"We got into an auto with Sammy Stern," the witness testified, stating that she knew Stern because he had sued her before.

Mrs. Zupkofska testified they drove to the City Hospital, and Stern, entering with the women, said he was going to call "a good doctor—Dr. Morrison. He called him right in the hospital." The witness said Stern told her not to talk about the case, and the next day called at her home.

"He wanted to take the case," she testified. "I said, 'No, I don't want you.' He came back with Mr. Pritzky. Mr. Pritzky said, 'He's a good man. Take him.' I called my daughter. Sammy Stern said if I didn't take him as my lawyer I couldn't get the number (registration) of the car."

DOUBTED THE STORY

Arthur Wiche of Columbus ave., testified that while a patient at City Hospital a man came in and said he represented Stern and Stern, and that Joseph Stern called the next afternoon. The witness quoted him as saying he could get Wiche a good sum and a quick settlement, and that he had "a perfect hookup."

Wiche said he signed a paper but put only his first name on it. He said Stern painted such a desirable picture he began to doubt it and decided to retain his own lawyer, Edward Cohen.

He quoted Joseph Stern, on a second visit, as saying he had seen Atty. Cohen who said it was "all right." Wiche said he then affixed his last name to the paper. Stern, he said, offered him fruit and cigars. Later Atty. Cohen came to the hospital and denied he had seen talked to Stern.

PRESENT OF RADIO

The witness said after he went home Joseph Stern called at his house, told him he must be lonely and suggested he needed a radio, leaving $1 on the table.

Under cross-examination Wiche said he accepted a radio from Stern after having given a power of attorney to Atty. Cohen.

Samuel Stern took the stand in his own defense. He said he became retained in the Zupkofska case through a client, Mr. Pritzky, and that Pritzky carried on most of the conversation. Pritzky, the witness said, recommended him as a good lawyer.

Referring to testimony concerning Dr. Morrison he said, "I said from experience the attention of a good doctor and nurse help a good deal. I said I would recommend Dr. Morrison. I said I knew him. He is a very capable man. They said to get hold of him."

YUGOSLAVS FLEE FLOODS

BELGRADE, April 4 (AP)—Floods drove 20,000 Yugoslavs from their homes today. The Danube river town of Novisad, imminently endangered, mobilized dike building crews from among its 15,000 residents.

Mercy Killer, 77, Given Life Term

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Miss Margaret Cowan, 77-year-old nurse who said she killed her sister in the Allentown Mental Hospital to put her "out of her misery," was convicted of first degree murder today and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A jury of six men and six women which received the case late yesterday returned the verdict when court opened. Judge Richard W. Iobst immediately sentenced the elderly woman to the State Industrial Home for Women at Muney, Pa.

The elderly woman defendant related calmly from the witness stand that she went to the institution and shot Mrs. Louella Saeger, 67, a patient there two years ago.

"I was guided by a higher power to remove her from this terrible condition," she said. "It was an inner voice that spoke to me."

First, she said, she gave her sister cupcakes treated with a narcotic "to lessen the pain," and then after firing one shot into the floor to be sure her pistol would work, "I shot my sister

G.P.L. Tablets May Often Aid in the Relief of Headaches and Dizziness Associated with High Blood Pressure When Taken Continuously at Prescribed Intervals

G.P.L. TABLETS have never been sold as a cure for High Blood Pressure. They are to be considered, at all times, only an aid in the relief of the painful headaches and dizziness associated with High Blood Pressure.

The ingredients in G.P.L. Tablets (especially garlic) have been successfully used in lowering High Blood Pressure in many cases, if they were taken continuously at prescribed intervals.

If you suffer from the torturing pains of High Blood Pressure try G.P.L. Tablets, as have thousands of others. G.P.L. Tablets provide many of the benefits of garlic without lingering after-effects. Through the use of a special process and their chocolate coatings, they are without taste or odor and may be taken freely without distaste or offense to others.

A box of 75 G.P.L. Tablets costs but 89c. A small price for the relief they may bring you. G.P.L. Tablets are sold only at the Nature Food Centres stores. Get your package today.

Check These Possible Symptoms of High Blood Pressure
- ☐ Dizziness.
- ☐ Headaches due to pressure within the head.
- ☐ Pressure pains in the back of the neck.
- ☐ Shortness of breath on walking up stairs or climbing hills.
- ☐ Pain in the region of the heart.
- ☐ Sleeplessness.
- ☐ Difficulty in concentrating.

G.P.L. Tablets Do Not Contain Dangerous Drugs

G.P.L. Tablets sometimes provide an easy and quick means of aiding relief of dizziness and headaches associated with High Blood Pressure. These tiny, chocolate coated tablets are free from all dangerous drugs, and may be carried in purse or pocket to be taken at any convenient time.

Years of clinical and experimental research show that garlic will cause a marked fall in abnormal blood pressure in some cases, if it is taken continuously at prescribed intervals.

Besides garlic, G.P.L. Tablets also contain concentrate of lettuce, endive, parsley and dulse.

QUIZ HIRED KILLERS ON GEM JOBS

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Suspects rounded up in the investigation of Murder, Inc., the Brooklyn killers-for-hire syndicate linked with at least 35 underworld slayings, were questioned by District Attorney William O'Dwyer today concerning a series of jewel robberies in Florida.

O'Dwyer's office said confessions of alleged members of the gang indicated the mob preyed on wealthy Florida residents ... forsys to the winter resort zone.

Among those questioned were Abe (Kid Twist) Reles, Abraham (Pretty Boy) Levine and Tony (The Duke) Maffetore.

Meanwhile, O'Dwyer's office disclosed that Mrs. Rose Mittleman, mother of Evelyn Mittleman, 21 year-old girl, three of whose sweethearts were lain in rivalry over her affections, had asked permission to visit her daughter in the house of detention.

The mother was represented as seeking to persuade the girl, who is held in $50,000 bail as a material witness, to divulge "important secrets" of the gang.

O'Dwyer refused the request.

Bombs Kill Mine Man, Injure Cop

CLAY, W. Va., April 4 (AP)—A possible bomb plot today brought state investigators to this rural county seat where a terrific blast wrecked an automobile and killed J. Valentine Hinshelwood, 60-year-old superintendent of a non-union coal company.

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—Policeman Walter E. Gray, 39, of suburban River Forest, lay critically injured in a hospital today, the victim of enemies who had attached a bomb to his automobile.

The officer touched off an explosion when he pressed the starter button. The blast demolished the car. Physicians amputated Gray's leg.

Connolly Ends Fight for Bail

John Patrick Connolly, former clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Court, today was reported to have given up his fight to obtain bail and ready to face sentence on Monday.

On that day, Connolly is to be brought before Judge George F. Leary in Suffolk Superior Court to face sentence on charges of bribery and conspiracy during his term as court clerk.

Connolly, disabled war veteran, attorney and the father of eight children, was convicted with his aide, William T. Conway, in the so-called job sales cases.

Organist Missing 2 Weeks 'Finds' Self

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS)—A member of the family was to go to Rochester, N. Y., today to return Richard T. Percy, 71, well known New York organist, who identified himself there to a hotel physician after being missing since March 20.

The man told Rochester authorities he was unable to remember his identity after being injured in a fall while alighting from a bus in New York. He said he remembered nothing of his travels before arriving in Rochester.

JOHN D. JR. FORCED TO QUIT FOUNDATION

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—The Rockefeller Foundation, whose age limitations have forced it to retire such eminent scientists as Dr. Alexis Carrel, has announced the retirement of the son of the founder himself—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.—because he is 66.

Dr. Carrel, whose feat in keeping a chicken heart alive for 28 years and more, has become famous, retired last year when he reached the age limit of 65.

Rockefeller's withdrawal was his second retirement from a foundation established by his late father from his oil millions. Last year he retired from the general education board. Mister Junior" had been either a member or board chairman of the Rockefeller Foundation for 27 years.

In a retirement statement, Rockefeller said the Foundation should keep its policies flexible, "so that it may quickly turn from a field where its usefulness is lessening or which others are occupying, to new fields, where the need is greater and pioneer work required. Any attempt to keep the hand of the past on the pulse of the future, to solve the problems of tomorrow with the mechanism of yesterday, can, at best, be only indifferently successful."

The foundation also announced the election of Walter W. Stewart as chairman of the board of trustees to succeed Rockefeller. Stewart is professor of economics at the institute for advanced study at Princeton University.

New Flood Fear In Wilkes-Barre

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 4 (INS)—Fear of a new flood spread through the Wyoming Valley today as the Susquehanna river, swollen by hours of heavy rainfall, resumed its rise.

Thousands of refugees who were beginning to move back to their homes were dismayed anew by reports that the river, which was down to 22.94 feet last midnight, had reached 23.29 feet at 7 a. m.

Observers predicted the stream might rise to 28 feet late today.

STORE UP IRON for YOUR BLOOD

Get Vitamin B1 for your Nerves

When the body craves these vital elements, a rich supply can put color in your cheeks and help you feel like a new person WITHOUT ALCOHOL OR HABIT-FORMING DRUGS.

When your system is low in iron and Vitamin B1 many vital organs slow down—you often look pale, lose your appetite, get tired easily, sleep poorly, and feel nervous and played out. Iron helps make red blood, and red blood is vital for healthy muscles, healthy skin, healthy glands and healthy organs. Iron-poor blood may cause low vitality, heart palpitations, shortness of breath, swollen ankles and frequent periods of ill health.

You need Vitamin B1 and if you don't have enough Vitamin B1 you may get a painful neuritis, stomach upsets, constipation, weak appetite, mental depression, restless sleep.

In these conditions, take ENRICH, the thrilling new tonic that tastes like juice of wild berries and gives you more iron every day than 6 lbs. of spinach or 6 lbs. of raisins; more Vitamin B1 daily than 5½ lb. of baker's yeast. Your pep comes back with a bounce when you restore missing iron and Vitamin B1 and you eat more, stop worrying, and sleep better. Right in this neighborhood many men, women and children feel keen and lead happier lives, through the help of ENRICH. Don't wait. ENRICH costs only a few cents a day. Money refunded unless ENRICH improves your state of well-being.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MONKEY'S BITE WORTH $17,000, IS CLAIM IN SUIT

PLYMOUTH, April 4—A $17,000 damage estimate was placed on a bite of a monkey, according to a suit filed in Superior Court here by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jewett of Hull against Clarens H. Huntress, also of Hull, alleged owner of the monkey.

Mrs. Jewett's suit is for $15,000, while her husband seeks $3000 for medical expenses.

Russell Case, Dorgan Topic

The case of Bertrand Russell, British earl and instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles whose appointment to a professorship in New York was revoked by the courts, will be discussed tonight by Thomas E. Dorgan, city legislative agent.

Dorgan, staunch advocate of patriotism and father of the Teachers' Oath law, will address members of Orient Heights Post, American Legion Auxiliary, at the American Legion Bungalow, Orient Heights.

Russell's New York appointment was turned down because it is alleged, he has taught treason and murder and "immoral and salacious doctrines" in his books.

Talking in His Sleep Traps Black Spade

moving, and once more the words of the uneasy sleeper.

"Take it easy. Follow that car in front of you and don't sound your horn, because if you do it'll be the last horn you'll ever blow."

The words ceased. There was a creaking of the bed, and the listener knew by the succeeding sound that the restless one had awakened and got up. Now he was pacing the floor of the room—up and down, up and down.

CALLS UP POLICE

Five minutes, or more, of this and again the bed creaked as Hawbolt got back between the covers. But this time he dropped into a wordless sleep and the listener crept down the stairs and telephoned police.

To Sergt. William Harrow the lodger detailed what he had heard, and the sergeant sprang instantly into action, sending Detectives Albert Hurst, Robert Maher, Clark Adair and William Boyden to the house.

Today in the headquarters lineup, young Hawbolt had no hesitation in identifying one of five of his asserted holdup victims when that one at first failed at identifying the accused.

Hawbolt's mother arrived at headquarters while the lineup was in progress, but he did not know it.

Nor did he know that witnesses and police then were to go before the grand jury and present evidence under direction of Asst. Dist. Atty. Garrett J. Byrne.

IDENTIFIED BY VICTIM

The confessed bandit was one in a lineup of 21 men, but Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sullivan of Mill st., Newtonville, first among his alleged victims, had no hesitancy in identifying him.

Mrs. Sullivan explained how her husband had fainted when the bandit forced him to drive the car to Wakefield.

"The man," said Mrs. Sullivan, "was in the back seat and he leaned over and opened my husband's shirt and felt his heart. Then he told me he was all right."

It was on that occasion, Hawbolt told officers, that he had to take a street car back from Wakefield, and so was out his carfare and "wasted an entire evening."

William Hawes, Maynard, Arlington, immediately identified the youth as the man who robbed him Feb. 8.

When Harold Albano, taxi driver, East Third st., South Boston, failed to pick Hawbolt out, the latter said to Lieut. Watkins:

FACES DEATH CAR QUIZ

"Have him talk so I can hear his voice."

When Albano spoke Hawbolt said:

"That's him."

Ralph Dudley supervisor of Drivers State Hospital, and Hawbolt identified each other.

Meanwhile, Hawbolt was to be questioned again concerning the taxicab death of Russell Matheson, Cambridge driver killed while attempting to recover his stolen cab on March 7.

Hawbolt denied any knowledge of the Matheson case, but the questioning was renewed when officials disclosed Matheson died of a stab wound.

In six holdups he obtained a total of $31, a jackknife, a watch and a ring, police said.

In his room raiding officers found the tiny gun, a dirk knife in a sheath—and a pile of newspaper clips about the exploits of the Black Spade.

In the handle of the knife were cut six notches and police later stated they believed the youthful Spade cut a notch in the dirk for each of his holdups.

Nab Black Spade Poser as Drunk

Sometimes alcohol gives a lad ideas!

Early today, on complaint of Taxi Driver Louis Franklin, 37, of Lorraine st., Allston, Charlestown police seized a Tremont st. man who had forced Franklin, he said, to drive for three hours through Medford, Lexington, Concord and Shirley and back to Charlestown.

During the 60-mile trip the driver was informed by the passenger that he was carrying the "original Black Spade."

All he won in his bid for fame, however, was a charge of drunkenness, police being sure they already have the real Black Spade locked up in Harold W. Hawbolt of the South End, who has confessed.

Information Corner

QUERY: Suppose I have the choice of cancelling out either of two letters in working out a puzzle. Would it make any difference which one I cross out? For example, suppose I was told to take away "B" from the word BASEBALL. Would it make any difference if I take away the first B (the first letter of the word) or the second B (the fifth letter of the word)?

REPLY: No difference. All puzzles are so made up as to give you the proper answer if you follow directions and do your "picture-arithmetic" correctly, no matter which one of two or more such possibilities you follow. The Rebus Game is a game of skill, and nothing is left to chance. In a case like that, you don't have to resort to guesswork—either letter could be crossed out without making any difference in the solution you arrive at.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One Hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including, among others, the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

BY PRESIDENTIAL proclamation, next Saturday will be Army Day throughout the United States.

This year's observance of the important event will be especially memorable. Our third line of defense is no longer third class. Thanks to the recent passage of the Army Appropriation Bill, it will soon be FIRST CLASS.

Nonetheless, we are still gravely deficient in some parts of the aervice. We are lacking in artillery. We need more modern 155 millimeter howitzers. We have ONLY four eight-inch howitzers. And many of our gun carriages are of ancient vintage.

On Army Day, therefore, it would be well to lay some stress on our shortcomings.

But on the whole we have a great deal to be grateful for since the last Army Day, because the Administration has been commendably alive to DEFENSE.

Let us, then, make next Saturday a day of jubilation tempered by the solemn resolution that WE ARE NOT GOING TO EUROPE and that we are building an Army and air defenses that will discourage any raiding power from coming over here.

"BABY FACE" Michael Virga, slayer of a crippled South End shopkeeper, is in State Prison, there to spend the rest of his days.

According to his own story, this puerile-visaged youth thought he needed money. He believed he had "a right to live." The "right" he was quite certain included "good times." So he obtained a gun, used it and thus forfeited the right to all "good times."

MICHAEL VIRGA
No More "Good Times"

It is important to examine this young man's short life and to note that a release on parole from the Lyman School immediately preceded his adventure into serious crime.

Like many another "graduate" of that institution, "Baby Face" was not reformed.

On the contrary, he was so far from reformed that almost his first thought upon regaining his freedom was getting money WITHOUT working and BY VIOLENCE, if necessary.

Especially should Lyman School authorities observe this significant FACT.

The observation might prove useful in salvaging other young lives similarly headed for imprisonment and disgrace.

FASHIONS CHANGE and so do grandmothers. Washington, D. C., reports convincing proof.

There, unchaperoned by children or grandchildren, 67 grandmas and great-grandmas are celebrating the second anniversary of the National Grandmothers' Club with a four-day "sightseeing spree."

A 1940 GRANDMA
Mrs. Grace A. Gray of Chicago

The climax of the holiday will be tea at the White House with a most illustrious grandmother—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President.

Probably the most interesting and satisfactory thing about the visit of these women to the national capital is their own appearance.

Nowhere in evidence are the somber garments grandmothers wore a generation ago.

Gone forever, apparently, are the black bonnets, braided capes, knitted shawls and trailing skirts.

Today's grandmother wears modish clothing any young matron could don without apology. Often she uses powder, lipstick and rouge.

Of course this may sadden poets and romantic souls, particularly those who think of grandmother as an aged woman in a rocking chair whiling away her time and waiting—sometimes none too patiently—for the inevitable end.

But more practical folks will prefer the Twentieth Century model grandma and cheer the group in Washington.

In these women's activity and zest for life there is a charm far more attractive and a thousand times more challenging to young people than the lure of isolation and retirement.

Fairies' Picnic

'TWAS down this path to the wishing well . . . under the moonlight's magic spell . . . that our gardener came on a pretty sight . . . a fairies' picnic —just last night.

They'd spread a tablecloth as fair . . . and white as a snowflake, light as air . . . then each, with a crinkly little plate . . . made out of a snail shell, sat down and ate . . . And their sandwiches weren't much bigger than crumbs . . . and their pickles no bigger than dolly's thumbs.

Then, all of a sudden, a million ants . . . crept up, and the fairies gave one glance . . . at the horrid things, and in dismay . . . they skreeked (he said) and ran away.

And we know it's true, and not romance . . . for the gardener showed us the self-same ants.

ROBERT BENCHLEY DEMONSTRATES INSOMNIA CURE
Columnist Prefers to Slap Cold Towel on Back of His Neck

"WHAT'S a cure for insomnia? I'll try anything," writes a client. Afraid I cannot help this poor wretch. When I can't sleep, which isn't often, I take a walk or slap a cold towel on the back of my neck. Charles Dickens claimed sleep could be induced by sleeping with your head North and your feet South. Ben Franklin's idea was that after a short time the blankets and the body make a bed so hot it kept a person awake. So he had six beds and kept moving from one to another. My uncle Al said if you put on a pair of wet socks this would draw the blood from the head and bring on sleep. He said his grandfather told him that.

THEY SAY this is a century of progress, but it is just as hard to put a ribbon in a typewriter now as when I was in high school . . . Watching the passing throng at a busy intersection, I came to the conclusion women are not better dressed than men as continually alleged. In fact, the number of females in quaint, curious and unsuited combinations of attire seemed to exceed that of the males. Also, I saw more plump women than plump men.

"WHAT WILL we have for breakfast?" the girl friend asked me. "How about a nice steak?" I said. "That's ridiculous," said she. We had poached eggs on toast. Last time I had steak for breakfast was on a Great Lakes steamer going from Buffalo to Detroit . . . The office wives seem to be organized. I have a letter from one Lucille Perkins of the "Executives Secretaries Association." "You have been saying mean things about secretaries," complains Lucille. I don't remember so doing. But if I have I am going to eat out. Because if the "Executives Secretaries Association" has a ball, a hay ride or a clambake I would like to be invited.

OLIVE HATCH had four male escorts at a night club recently. Not bad. However, the American record for male escorts is held by Marlene Dietrich who once appeared at a Hollywood night club with six male escorts . . . As I see it, the best system for taxi charges is the zone system. A city is divided into zones starting from center of town. Cab takes you to any place in zone one for 20 cents, zone two for 30 cents, zone three 40 cents and so on. In this way the passenger doesn't have to worry about the meter.

NOW TAKE these quiz experts. Why don't they let the audience ask some questions? Why don't they challenge representatives of organizations to ask them questions? How about a contest of Information Please vs. Yale freshmen, with the freshmen doing the quizzing. Or Prof. Quiz vs. The Boston School Teachers, with the latter propounding a few brain teasers. That would be a real test of these quiz experts' knowledge.

-:- -:- MY DAY

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 4 —The news has not been pleasant reading. We rejoiced in the spring, and were shocked to see blazoned forth that the good weather made it possible to fly over the Western Front in Europe. The list of planes shot down which followed gave me an utter sense of futility.

As I drove along the street, I saw a headline on one paper saying: "A Peace Pledge to Be Demanded of Roosevelt on April 6th." How unnecessary. Peace pledges should be demanded of their leaders by the people of nations at war. What good does it do to demand it of a leader who is entirely willing to give it?

A FRIEND came to tea with us Monday afternoon and then we had the pleasure of hearing some songs rendered for us by a Negro Choral Group. At 6:45, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Benjamin called for us and took us to their home for a quiet family dinner before taking us to our lecture. The forum here is always a stimulating group before which to appear. The question period is most interesting to me revealing as it does, an absorbed and thoughtful audience.

SIGN OF SPRING!
Aerial War Blazes Abroad

This column is being written before I start at 7:15 a. m. with Mr. and Mrs. Melvyn Douglas for the airport on a trip to some of the farm security camps.

While on planes and trains these last few days, I have been going through a number of articles and books which had been sent me to read before I left Washington. I am going to recommend one small book to you, for I think it should be read by all thoughtful people and it will be a useful handbook in families and study groups.

This little book is called: "Schools For Democracy." It is published by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and it was compiled by Miss Charl Ormond Williams and Mr. Frank W. Hubbard.

I HAVE always been an advocate of community forums and study groups because I believe that communities must know their own problems and learn how to do something about them if democracy is to be a success.

This book is designed to give us knowledge about one of our most cherished institutions—our public schools. It tells how schools are organized and what part non-school agencies play in our scheme of education. It shows that larger participation by the Federal Government is necessary in order to equalize opportunities between the poorer and richer sections of our country for the education of our children.

BERLIN STILL ANGRY AT LEVANT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 4—Irving Berlin, whose new show, "Louisiana Purchase," is all set, still doesn't speak to Oscar Levant, because of the references to him in "A Smattering of Ignorance" . . . Oscar returned from San Francisco, and asked a friend, 'Have you seen Berlin lately?' . . . 'Yes,' was the answer . . . 'Did he say anything about me?' asked Oscar . . . 'No,' he was told. 'I guess it means he's forgiven you' . . . 'No' said Oscar 'It means only that he's busy in rehearsal.' . . . The newest member of the Murder Syndicate gang to be removed to a place for safekeeping is Magoon, who was taken out of the penitentiary and transferred to a Bronx cell—as a prelude to his confession . . . The latest stunt used in inducing witnesses to talk is having them measured carefully, and explaining: "We're doing it because The Mob just ordered a coffin—and we want to check up to see whether you're the one it's supposed to fit."

Margaret, who had been snow-bound earlier this year, purchased a dog sled . . . "And were you able to buy good Huskies to draw the sled?" she was asked . . . "No, I bought Irish setters," she replied, "They match my red hair."

WHEN Sumner Welles returned from his European trip, ship news reporters were unable to elicit any information from him . . . A messenger delivered a telegram to Welles, who glanced at it and smiled. ARTIE SHAW brought his bride, Lana Turner, into the Stork Club Monday night and, for the first time since he had left New York, met Betty Grable, to whom he had been affianced. Betty greeted them cordially, and wished them luck . . . Shaw is completing arrangements for one Carnegie Hall concert, at which he'll present modern American music. "I'm going to try," he stated, "to make a legitimate woman out of Jazz" . . . When he reminisced of his early days, Shaw was told that a resident of Bucks County, Pa., had met him there some years ago, asked him: "What do you do?" and was told: "I'm a trombonist—the greatest trombonist in the world" "That story isn't true," Artie assured. "Because when I retired to Bucks County I went there to think. My answer was: 'I'm the greatest philosopher in the world.'"

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY A New York cop last charges today that a Boston nightclub is paying hostess girls $12.50 a week . . . If such a wage scale does obtain the place is not a downtown nightclub . . . In the area bounded by Stuart and Arlington streets, the Statler and Ritz—the minimum is $22.50 a week and the maximum enjoyed by a handful of popular girls) is $30 . . . The Ritz-Carlton Roof opens May 14 . . . Eddie Le Baron's Orchestra, one of the ranking tango-conga-rhumba outfits will play at the Roof's premiere.

ONLY OTHER BOOKINGS made by Ed Wyner, the Ritz's operator, at this writing are those of Guy Lombardo, and Tommy Dorsey . . . You can expect, however, that Benny Goodman and Duke Ellington will be among those having been present before Labor Day, and Glenn Miller's engagement is a probability . . . The early booking of Eddie Le Baron will give Mr Wyner a test as to the popularity of the so-called "spik" dances . . . New York and Hollywood society has adopted the conga-rhumba craze almost to the exclusion of the native form of dance, but Boston thus far has declined to be numbered among the addicts

THE MOST ACTIVE CAMPAIGNING politician in Boston these days is not a Bostonian . . . He is Mayor Roger Putnam of Springfield, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor . . . Mayor Putnam particularly needs a great deal of local fence-building, his board of strategy is convinced . . . But with a rush of Greater Boston candidates anticipated, the Putnam campaign-committee is very enthusiastic at this early date.

JAMES H. BRENNAN, former executive councilor and the Democratic nominee in 1938 for the office, is a sure candidate for the second place on the ticket, and former Rep. Alexander Sullivan of East Boston, is another candidate . . . If Senator Joseph A. Langone decides to enter the fray, the local competition will be so hectic that the Putnam chances will be very bright indeed, his managers feel . . . Senator Langone is expected to declare his candidacy for some state-wide office at the testimonial planned in his honor at the Garden.

MAURICE EVANS REPEATED his Boston triumph at the New York premiere of "Richard II" . . . But the English actor, guided somewhat by the apathy shown at the box-office in advance of his opening, will take to the road April 27 . . . A mere month's run in New York may annoy the New York drama critics who, to a man, rose and cheered the Evans "Richard II" . . . Such a batch of notices for another type of show would have the producers and cast gleefully settling down for at least a year in New York.

WHAT A COMEBACK the Theater Guild has staged this year, it is a pleasure to report . . . Strangely enough, the mourners of the writing fraternity (including this

HUSTON IN DANIEL WEBSTER ROLE

Walter Huston

NEW York, April 4—Well here I am back in town from Hollywood but not before I've had one of the most interesting times I've had in a long, long while. Everyone was so nice to me and I'm sure Walter Wanger played an almost Cinderella role in my life. We talked politics and so did everyone we met. The tragedy of the whole Wanger affair is that it might have been the basis for the screen

I wish you could know many of you long time readers and friends know that Webster as Schaffer from Missouri was the great pleasure to the South a few years before the war between the States broke out? He was so active in his efforts to get trade peace that he was asked to step out of office in Missouri State. Walter Huston is Stahl's choice to play Webster and if Walter is free and the script can be rushed it will be made for Columbia. But because of the research it is more likely to be Stahl's first on his United Artists deal

TWO-MINUTE STORY

"I AM GOING to kill you," the man said in a tone he strove to keep matter-of-fact. His face was flushed and there was a strong odor of liquor about him as he fingered the handle of a small wicked-looking hatchet. His trussed-up victim eyed him helplessly and with resignation; he had long since ceased to struggle and now he made no sound.

"I have known all along that some day I should be compelled to kill you," the man went on, his voice thick from the effects of the whiskey.

"AND from the look on my wife's face this morning when I surprised you in her arms, I think she knew it too . . . Now that the time has come I do not find it easy. Which is the reason you see me, a man sober by nature, in this disgusting condition.

"But without the false courage whiskey gives, I should not have the nerve to go through with it. I am going to take another drink and then it will soon be over."

Slowly he set the hatchet down and took the bottle from his pocket. He unscrewed the cap, tilted the bottle to his lips and drank deeply. The burning liquid scorched his throat and brought tears to his eyes. Gasping for breath, he drew the back of his hand across his mouth then returned the bottle to his pocket.

Picking up the hatchet once more, he tested its razor sharpness on the ball of his thumb then turned to face the other. Once more his victim struggled convulsively but to no effect. The bonds held.

"I must get it over with quickly," the man with the hatchet muttered under his breath. Slowly, maddeningly, inch by inch the hatchet rose high above his head. Then when it seemed that it must fall, the ugly weapon dropped from his nerveless fingers. He staggered to the house and grimly faced his wife. She was as pale as he.

"IT'S NO USE," he said harshly. "We'll have to have pork for dinner. I can't kill our pet rooster!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

PRIDE! You're doubtful about that word. You're not sure that pride is a good thing. You've been warned against it. You distrust it when you meet it.

But that's wrong; for pride is both natural and necessary.

Every living creature needs to think well of itself; needs to reach out and assert itself, and find its place in the sun. It wouldn't grow if it didn't.

Pride is just the voice of Life, telling of its hunger, boasting of its power, crying out for more room.

All good and brave and beautiful work is based on pride—based on some human's faith in himself and desire to do a good job for himself. We would have had no civilization if men had not been proud of themselves.

PRIDE LIES back of every bad deed, as well as good deed. Every form of cussedness and crime is based on pride.

Think of the murderer. He was not born a murderer. He was born just as you were born, with the same natural desire for a happy, healthy life. There was no vicious cruelty in his heart. He wanted to love people. He wanted people to love him. He wanted people to admire him. He wanted to get ahead in life, to win love, admiration, wealth and power. Pride drove him on.

It is so with the murderer, and so with the thief, the forger, the gambler, the gangster. Every crime is based on pride. We see criminals as deliberate and dangerous brutes, but the criminal sees himself as a man fighting for his rights—protecting his own pride and position.

THAT fact shouldn't make us softy with criminals, but it should make us wise about them; for we'll never be able to prevent crime, or protect ourselves against it until we understand why the criminal gets that way.

Try to remember that, as you meet your fellow man. It will change life amazingly if you will. It will clear up countless mysteries, take the sting out of countless irritations. It will help you understand the queerest and the most vicious people.

It may even help you to understand some of your own shenanigans.

Flagstad's 'Lohengrin,' Grace Moore's 'Manon' Thrill All

Melchior Shares In Opera Honors

By LEO GAFFNEY

The Metropolitan had another double day at the Boston Opera House—"Lohengrin," with Flagstad and the principal Wagnerians in the afternoon, "Manon," with Grace Moore and Richard Crooks, in the evening.

It is now almost routine to report that Flagstad's performance of the Elsa role was as vocally lavish as anyone has a right to expect, that once again Mr. Melchior, as The White Knight, arrived in elegance and in the nick of time to confound the wicked conspirators and claim a bride—whose fatal curiosity lost for her forever her invincible champion.

Little need either to launch the intelligence that once again King Henry—in the astounding basso of Emanuel List, prayed with upraised voice that the best man might win, and that Julius Huehn and Karin Branzell were, respectively, the baritone and contralto with just the voices for the dark deeds of the plotters.

In the evening Miss Grace Moore, once of musical comedy, later of the world-wide movies, now among the "Met's" ace attractions, sang and sobbed her way to a personal triumph as "Manon," the not so simple country maiden who ran away to Paris and had herself a time—before the cops and her conscience brought her to the customary operatic end.

Whatever else may be said of Massenet's music, it goes well with flattery ladies like Manon—especially when good fortune provides a Grace Moore to sing of her. And as for the noble Chevalier des Grieux, what better tenor than Richard Crooks to pronounce the grand passion?

Hedy Lamarr, Spencer Tracy in 'I Take This Woman' for Scollay, Modern

Beautiful Hedy Lamarr and two fisted Spencer Tracy in "I Take This Woman" will occupy the Scollay and Modern screens, starting tomorrow. On the same bill will be "The Man From Dakota," starring Wallace Beery, John Howard, Dolores Del Rio, Donald Meek and Robert Barrat.

"I Take This Woman" is the story of two people who were never meant to meet, set against the background of New York's Cafe Society. She is a glamour girl who has been jilted by a playboy. He is a fine, young doctor who kisses and can't forget her.

In the second attraction, Beery and Howard are cast as prisoners who escape from a Confederate detention camp and experience heart-quickening adventure in the arms of a lovely Russian refugee.

ELEANOR POWELL STILL INSISTS SHE'S 'HOOFER AT HEART'

Took Up Dancing To Cure Shyness

Springfield's Eleanor Powell, who is co-starred with Fred Astaire in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film musical, "Broadway Melody of 1940," opening today on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, still insists she's a "hoofer at heart."

She was sent to dancing school as a small girl to overcome shyness. She was so painfully timid she wanted to run away from the first few lessons. Then she became so interested she forgot to be shy. She was noticed by Gus Edwards on the beach at Atlantic City and offered a nightly job dancing at the Ritz Grill. She accepted and from that time spent winters in Springfield and summers dancing with Gus Edwards revues.

At 16, she got her first break on Broadway, playing the lead in "Follow Thru" and subsequently becoming a Broadway favorite.

She came to Hollywood to do small parts in "George White's Scandals." When the picture was released all that showed of Eleanor were her feet and legs. Later, she tried out for a small part in Metro's "Broadway Melody of 1936," and won the leading role on the strength of the test.

From then to the 1940 "Melody," Miss Powell has appeared in many starring roles.

ELEANOR POWELL and Fred Astaire are dancing to Cole Porter's "I Concentrate on You," one of the hit numbers of "Broadway Melody of 1940," now showing on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Harvard Club's 60th Show

As its 60th production the Harvard Dramatic Club has selected "The Ascent of F6," a poetic tragedy by two young English authors, W. H. Auden and Christopher Isherwood.

It will be presented in Sanders Theater, Cambridge, on May 2, 3 and 4. The plot is concerned with the fatal attempt of a British mountaineering expedition to scale F6, one of the highest and most difficult mountains in the world. Underlying this is the portrayal of the struggle of man, the idealist, against the forces of civilization.

The production will be directed by the club's past president, L. John Profit, S. oger Sheppard, his successor, and Jervis B. McMechan.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 4—All the dieting the pommelling Patricia Morison has gone through to lose 12 pounds in two weeks is not in vain. Today when she showed up on the Paramount lot looking as svelte as a fashion model they handed her the biggest role she's had on the screen—the femme lead opposite Fred MacMurray in "Rangers of Fortune," for being such a good girl.

Patricia, who was broken-hearted when she was replaced in "Moon Over Burma" because she was too plump, is just about the happiest girl in the town over this good break. Not only will she model her new figure in this story of gun-running the Mexican border after the Civil War, but she'll have the advantage of Sam Woods' expert direction.

Will wonders never cease? Olympe Bradna, who refused to be kissed on the screen when she was under contract to Paramount and whose parents raised the roof when she was asked to wear a decollette gown as going to don a sarong for the role of the native girl in "South of Pago Pago."

I don't know what brought about this change of heart since it was said Olympe's mother and father wouldn't hear of such a thing when Edward Small first offered her the role.

Be that as it may, the little Bradna girl is flying back from a personal appearance tour to go into the Small picture with Jon Hall and personally I think all concerned would be very smart in the future if this "Miss Prim" angle in her publicity is toned down.

Robinson's 'Ehrlich' Hit for Uptown

CROSBY AND BOB HOPE FROLIC ON PARA-FENWAY SCREENS

Dorothy Lamour In Comedy Trio

Bing Crosby and Bob Hope, co-starred in "Road to Singapore," newest screen attraction at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters, represent the happiest comedy teaming since Mae West and W. C. Fields went tandem.

These two—Bing with his slow drawl and Bob who gets off his gags with machine-gun speed—are excellent foils for each other. It is to be hoped that Paramount studio will see eye to eye with the movie-fans and team them in future comedies.

Dorothy Lamour, the girl who climbed to stardom on, or rather in, a sarong, is the object of their affections in "Road to Singapore," one of those improbable businesses with hip-swinging beauties dancing in moolit glades haunting melodies sung under tropical skies and two-fisted action on shipboard.

Most of the setting of the story is a beautiful island south of Singapore where Hope and Crosby, a couple of women-hating adventurers, are quietly enjoying the beauties of nature. Things begin to happen fast when they meet and fall in love with Lamour. They alternate in her affections, bing winning her at long last.

The second feature, "Women Without Names," is the story of drama and romance behind the high, grey walls of a women's prison. Ellen Drew, Robert Paige and Judith Barrett are leading players.

More Stars Join Durante

Known for several weeks as the Jimmy Durante-Ray Bolger musical "Keep Off the Grass," which will have its premiere at the Shubert Theater, Monday, April 29, has added two other stars to its already imposing list, as well as a half dozen names, mostly of young people, who are new to Broadway and Boston.

Ilka Chase, hitherto identified with straight parts, and Jane Froman, the singer, are the additional stars. The new-comers are Virginia O'Brien, who made a tremendous impression by her unique style of singing in the Hollywood Revue, "Meet the People," and was drafted for "Keep Off the Grass"; Jack Gleason, a young comedian, who was discovered at "Club 18" Sunnie O'Dea, a sprite of a dancer, who will team with Mr. Bolger; Betty Bruce, who danced here in "The Boys From Syracuse," and Alexander D'Arcy, a handsome juvenile.

JUDITH BARRETT'S loveliness and Bing Crosby's substantial comedy are an unbeatable combination in "Road to Singapore," the Crosby-Bob Hope-Dorothy Lamour starring picture now unreeling on the Paramount and Fenway screens.

Paul Muni Hit Tops Tremont Bill

Tremont's seven features are "We Are Not Alone," with Paul Muni, and Jane Bryan and Flora Robson, and "the Great Waltz," with Miliza Korjus and Strauss music.

Symphony Final Cambridge Concert

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will give its final concert of the Cambridge season in Sanders Theater next Thursday evening. Dr. Koussevitsky will include Berlioz's Overture to "Benvenuto Cellini," in the program.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

MUSIC LOVING YOUNGSTERS didn't play hookey to attend the Opera yesterday afternoon . . . They didn't have to . . . Spring vacation came just the right time this year so a great many teen age socialites accompanied their parents to the matinee performance of "Lohengrin" and had their first experience at grand opera . . .

Mrs. Bayard Thayer, one of Boston's most inveterate opera devotees, was accompanied by a box party of youngsters and Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood chaperoned their young daughter and treated her to lemonade during the entr'acte . . . Mrs. Harwood's modish springtime outfit consisted of an olive green dress, sable cape with gardenias, and a fetching white hat tied up with a white veil and trimmed with scarlet feather wings . . .

Mrs. William C. Cox, who has just returned from judging a horse show in Texas, was a guest in her mother's box at both the matinee and evening performances . . . Green and white was also the color scheme of her daytime outfit . . . a springlike printed dress with a fitted chartreuse jacket and matching purse . . . In the evening she presented a more formal picture in a bright blue and silver lame gown with long white kid gloves and gardenia corsage . . .

Many Young Couples Attend

THE ROMANTIC STORY of Manon Lescaut, portrayed so poignantly by Grace Moore and Richard Crooks, lured many young couples to the evening performance . . .

Repetition makes everything lose a little of its individuality and brilliance, but this is not true of the two-fold spectacle presented at the Opera House this week . . . The socialites in the audience continue to contribute their share of the brilliance by appearing in different costumes from their well stocked wardrobes every evening, and the cast of the Met continues to outdo itself with beautiful performances.

A glance from one end of the Golden Horseshoe to the other revealed a number of attractive young couples . . . Abigail Aldrich attended with her fiance, Robert Hamlin, to whom she will be married April 19 . . . Niece of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the bride-to-be was tastefully gowned in filmy black lace and net, with a pearl necklace, diamond clip, and headdress of ruby ostrich tips . . .

Many Costly Jewels Worn

A DIAMOND CRESCENT sparkled on Mrs. Nathaniel Simpkins' black lace gown and she wore a diamond necklace to match . . . In fact there were enough jewels in evidence last evening to arouse the envy of even an Indian Prince . . . Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., chose a black lace gown to set off her diamond brooch and necklace which was fastened in the back with a black velvet clasp . . . Mrs. Bartlett Harwood's jewelled necklace contained the brilliant colors of her printed lame gown and Mrs. Charles Bacon wore diamond drop earrings with a black satin gown . . .

Fluffy white fox vied with ermine for fashion honors among the lavish fur wraps . . . Mrs. Bayard Warren's ermine cape had a demure collar of black tails . . . Mrs. Harold G. Kern, just returned from Miami and sporting a deep and becoming tan, wore a snowy white fox jacket over a full skirted gown of black lace and marquisette . . . Fox also fashioned the wrap of Mrs. John O'Day who was escorted by her son, Sanford Chapin . . .

Bella Grandin, who can always be counted upon for something novel in headdresses, had her dark locks tied peruke fashion with a cluster of pink and white peonies at the nape of her neck . . . Her gown of flame crepe was topped by a gold wrap . . . During intermission she engaged Nat Saltonstall and Charles Curran in animated conversation . . .

Phyllis Howe in Shirred Gray Chiffon

PHYLLIS HOWE, one of the coming summer's outstanding brides, wore shirred gray chiffon, and joined Marian Minot and Mary Elizabeth Clarke for a stroll . . . Her mother, Mrs. Dudley Howe, attended with her . . . Others in the throng of opera devotees included Mrs. John B. Thomas in black lace with a diamond ornament on the bodice, Mrs. C. Stewart Black in chartreuse lace with a corsage of violets to match her sash; Mrs. John Moseley Abbott, Mrs. Arthur Pearson and Miss Nella Pearson, all opera guarantors; young Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Hubbard with their daughter, Celia, Mrs. Alexander Steinert and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Howe . . . Lucy Cochrane wore a demure off-the-shoulder black chiffon gown as she strolled along the foyer with Dorothy West and Olivia Ames.

MARY ELIZABETH CLARKE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Clarke of Brookline, wore a gown of silver and white lame with a corsage of gardenias at the Opera last evening.

Waltzing Fete

Full skirted gowns, tiaras, long kid gloves and other niceties of the pre-jazz era, made their appearance at the fourth of a series of waltzing evenings at the Hotel Somerset this week. Gliding about in three-quarter time Mrs. Daniel Frost Comstock made a striking picture in a full skirted red organdie gown, made of row upon row of fine tucks, with long tight sleeves, and low square neckline.

Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge and L. Gerard Paine danced the energetic steps of the polka which was played several times by Harry Marshard and his men to vary the program of lilting Viennese waltzes. Amy Lang, fully recovered from a recent illness, had the time of her life gliding about the floor with one partner after another and shared a table for sitting out with Olive Perry and several out of town friends.

Alumnae

Bridge Aids Scholarship

Miriam Sullivan, president, will preside at the annual bridge and tea . . . slated for Saturday afternoon, April 13 at the Steuben Room Moderne, under the sponsorship of Mt. St. Joseph Academy alumnae association . . . for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

One of the outstanding features of the affair will be a demonstration of Spring and Summers newest hairdos created by Kathryn Kenny, popular hair stylist.

Mary Ring of Brighton and Dorothy Burns of Allston serve chairman honors for the party . . . with Ellen Ahern and Mary O'Rourke in charge of the ticket sale. Heading the various other committees are Mildred O'Rourke and Peggy McKenna, favors; Anne McLaughlin and Alice Baxter, models; Frances Sweeney and Mrs. T. Vincent McCarthy, publicity.

Plan Bridge In South End

Anna M. Murphy heads the planning committee for the bridge, whist and dancing party to be given by guests of St. Helena's House on Wednesday evening, April 10, in the auditorium at 88 Union Park st.

Directing the bridge and whist committee are Regina Knightly and Naomi Sylvester assisted by Frances Waters, Mary Dwyer, Anne Lynch, Mary Kelley, Alice Locke and Helene Sullivan.

Eleanor Neal and Sarah Sullivan will serve as hostesses, and tickets are in charge of Carole Gronau, Katherine Donohue and Mary E. Kelley.

REV. M. J. AHERN LUNCHEON SPEAKER

Mrs. B. Preston Cutler, Mrs. C. Mifflin Frothingham, Mrs. Augustine B. Conant and Miss Lucy Lowell are among the many guests at a luncheon for members of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union today. Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., who has done considerable work with color photography, will give an illustrated lecture on the subject.

Vance-Price Wedding Near

A late April wedding is being planned by Mrs. Jane Kelley Price and Dr. L. Alexander Vance, whose engagement is announced by the former's mother, Mrs. Edmund Sears Kelley of Brookline.

The bride-to-be, a graduate of the May School, attended Bennington College and became a member of the Junior League following her debut in 1934-35. Her first husband was Bradford Price of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Cambridge, to whom she was married in June, 1937.

Dr. Vance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Vance of Waynesboro, Va., recently completed his internship at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and is a graduate of the University of Virginia medical school. The wedding will take place in Washington, D. C.

Good Rolls Easy to Make

By MARTHA LEE

Any woman can be an expert at making delicious, delicate-textured rolls. The ingredients are few and of the kind that homemakers usually have on their kitchen shelves. The essential ingredients are flour, liquid and yeast.

When wheat flour and liquid are combined, gluten is formed. The dough is kneaded to develop the gluten into a meshwork which will stretch when the dough rises.

The kneading time required to make a smooth, elastic dough which will hold the leavening gas efficiently is from 8 to 10 minutes. When kneading begins, yeast dough is rather sticky, but this does not indicate that too little flour has been used. As kneading continues, the dough becomes smooth and satiny.

Soft doughs make the best breads, so do not use too much flour during kneading. Kneading soft doughs on a pastry cloth or canvas makes them easy to handle.

As soon as the dough is ready for molding, divide into portions for loaves or rolls. Form each portion into a ball and allow to "rest" for 10 to 15 minutes. This rest period improves the shape of the rolls and loaves, because the dough recovers its resiliency after being punched down. The rolls therefore, are easier to handle and will retain their shape.

STANDARD ROLLS

2 cups milk, scalded
2 tsp. salt
¼ cup sugar
1-3 cup shortening
1 to 2 cakes compressed yeast
6 cups sifted flour (about)

Place milk, salt, sugar and ¼-cup shortening in large mixing bowl and cool, when lukewarm, add crumbled yeastcakes and 3 cups flour and beat thoroughly. Gradually stir in remaining flour, adding just enough to make a dough slightly softer than that for bread; turn out on floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, adding flour as necessary. Place dough in greased bowl and brush with melted shortening; cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk (for 2 to 4 hours.) Knead shape as desired and place in greased pan; brush with melted shortening, cover and let rise in warm place until very light (for 1 to 2 hours.) Bake in hot oven (400 deg. to 425 deg. F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 3 to 4 dozen rolls.

RAISED BISCUITS

Cut off small, uniform pieces; fold sides under until top is smooth and dough is round. For crusty biscuits, place balls 1 inch apart; for tall, soft biscuits, place close together.

TWISTS

Roll dough ½ inch thick, cut in narrow strips and roll with palm of hand into 8-inch strips; twist from ends in opposite directions, then bring ends together. Place in greased pan 1 inch apart; brush with egg yolk diluted with 1 tablespoonful milk.

FINGER ROLLS

Shape small pieces of dough into balls; roll with hand on unfloured board to desired thickness, keeping them smooth and uniform in size. Place 1 inch apart.

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS

Roll dough ¼ inch thick, cut with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter and make crease across center of each round with dull edge of knife. Brush with melted shortening, fold each over and press lightly on fold. Place rolls 1 inch apart.

BREAD STICKS

Roll dough ½ inch thick; cut in ½ inch strips and roll with palm of hand into long, smooth rolls, the thickness of a pencil. Cut in 6 to 9-inch lengths and place in greased pan 1 inch apart. When nearly baked, reduce heat to 350 deg. F.; bake until dry and crisp.

CLOVERLEAF ROLLS

Shape very small pieces into balls, dip in melted shortening and place 3 in each section of greased muffin pan.

CRESCENTS

Roll dough ¼ inch thick; with floured, sharp knife, cut in about 3-inch squares; then cut each square in half diagonally. Brush with melted shortening and roll each triangle from base to point; press point down firmly and bring two ends almost together to form crescent. Place on greased baking sheet about 1 inch apart; brush tops with egg white, beaten slightly with 2 tablespoons water.

TO MAKE these Clover Rolls, shape very small pieces of dough into balls, dip in melted shortening and place three is each section of greased muffin pan.

You Can Be Beautiful

Permanently Scented

By ARLINE GOULD

FLOWERS to someone very lovely . . . how often you've thought that it was too bad they couldn't last, to perpetuate the thrill of getting the gayly bedecked box . . . but that was before an exciting new invention appeared, an amazingly real "ever-fresh" corsage, done up in a shining cellophane box!

A clever basic-costume accessory is this new gift idea . . . and while we don't mean that it will ever take the place of real orchids or the real gardenias that your charm will merit through a gay and giddy career . . . it is a thought for showers, birthdays and ensembling tricks that make your own wardrobe look enormous!

The ever-fresh flowers . . . fragrant, life-size and with an exquisite dewy look, as though they'd just come from the florist's big ice box . . . are matched by a sachet . . . so you really get three things for the price of one! Use the loop on the sachet if you'd rather hang it in a clothes closet than drop t among lingerie. Use the cellophane box for trinkets or letters. And pin the flowers on your new spring coat, or the nicest furs you have.

There's a story on the ever-fresh angle that has to do with the singular lastingness of the corsages' scent. If ever, after weeks of wearing the blossoms, the scent seems to diminish, just press the petals gently through a damp cloth with a hot iron and their perfume will be strong as ever.

Choose from smart white lilac sprays, mauve wistaria, brilliant carnations, gardenias or geranium.

If you'd like to know more about this ever-fresh corsage combination of permanently scented artificial flowers, matching sachet and cellophane box, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until 5:30, or write enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage

She Seeks Lost Daughter

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Thirty years ago I was married to a man who deserted me after a short time. A month after I gave birth to a baby girl, I was taken seriously ill with pneumonia, and was not expected to live. My folks wrote for my husband to come. Instead, he sent his mother, who took the baby with her, and I haven't seen her since.

A month after the baby was taken, I received a letter from my husband's mother, telling me to come, that the baby was very sick. I hadn't yet recovered from my illness and couldn't go, so I wrote and sent a large package of clothes, which was acknowledged. Then I received a letter not to write or send any more clothes.

My husband returned in about a year, but did not stay and never gave me any money or support. I lived with my parents. Then I sued for divorce and asked custody of the child. I got the divorce but not my daughter. I am now remarried and have six children.

I am very anxious to find my girl and have learned in a roundabout way that she is married. My husband does not want me to find her, but I must, as I lay awake nights crying. Please tell me what you think best to do.

A MOTHER.

The Bureau of Missing Persons has definite ways of tracing people. We read accounts of united families in papers nearly every day. The Legal Aid Society may give you a steer in the right direction. Also, have you thought of advertising in the home town papers or where your former husband lived?

You have your former husband's address, and you might write to him you are about to take steps to find your daughter, in which case he may give you her present name and address.

SINNER, BEWARE!

& A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page &

By CHARLES McGUIRK

AMY PERKINS had been an institution in Amityville for 32 of her 50 years. She was a tall, thin, precise-looking spinster and she lived all alone in an old-fashioned frame house two blocks from Main street.

She had been born in that house and she had spent her lifetime there caring for her aged parents until they had died. That was when she was eighteen and from that time she had been regarded by the townspeople as "odd."

Amityville is not a large town. The census gives it fifteen hundred inhabitants but you would have to take about five hundred of that number with a grain of local pride. They just don't exist. That is because Amityville is strictly a country town. It is thirty miles from Ridgeton, the nearest railroad center, and it is 250 miles from the nearest large city.

It is a religious town, not one of those goody-goody, "holier than thou" communities where everybody goes to church three times a week and watches his neighbor to catch him in the act of doing something he shouldn't, but a town of five churches, all well-attended and well supported.

It was because Amy wasn't like the rest of Amityville that people began to regard her as "odd." Amy was what you might call a determined Christian with a Puritan trend. She took her religion so seriously that none of the town's five churches satisfied her. Amy said, "All these were right good churches in the beginning but they have fallen away. I've found my own religion. It's the old original Christianity. It believes in an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. It believes that if you sin, you shall be punished, no matter whether you're rich or poor, young or old, man or woman. God sees all and He doesn't let anything go unrewarded or unpunished."

HER OWN IDEA

Of course, that wasn't Christianity, at all. It was the puritanical slant on Christianity. Amy had evolved it herself by the reading of the Old Testament of the Bible and a hundred other religious works, some of them not particularly brilliant. And she never missed church—she went to the one she was brought up in every Sunday.

You mustn't get the idea that Amy was unsocial. She wasn't. She was unsociable. She spent most of her time alone in her big empty frame house. There would be days, sometimes weeks, when no one would see her. But that was because she had never known gayety or romance in her youth. She was one of the best nurses, registered or otherwise, in the section.

There was the time that John Brainard, the banker, got down sick with arthritis. He had doctor after doctor and nurse after nurse. None of the doctors could do him any good and none of the nurses would stand the abuse he gave them. One day, he woke up alone. Even the servants had fled from his rasping tongue.

He might have died there alone if it hadn't been for Zeke Lacy. Zeke was the proprietor of the general store, the only one in Amityville. It was the hang-out for the town loafers and for the farmers who rested from their light winter chores. Zeke's was the clearing house for all the news that happened for miles around.

The Cast of Characters in "Sinner Beware"

AMY PERKINS, an unpopular spinster who does a world of good among the folks of the small town in which she lives.
JOHN BRAINARD, a banker.
ZEKE LACY, proprietor of the town's one general store.

But you'd never hear any news from Zeke. They used to say that when it came to information, Zeke Lacy wouldn't give you the right time. He was a big, fat, good-natured slow-moving man who minded his own business, and who never even talked back to Elizabeth, his wife. And that was something because Elizabeth had a tongue that a wasp could learn things from. And she used it unsparingly on Zeke. Zeke never said anything back. He never defended himself for taking a day off now and then in the spring and going fishing. He never said anything when Elizabeth talked about her neighbors. He just didn't talk.

ZEKE TELLS AMY

It happened that the last thing the last nurse did before leaving old John Brainard alone was to order a big stock of groceries. Zeke delivered the groceries about two hours after the old man woke up alone in his house and by that time the banker was so sorry for himself that he begged Zeke to get somebody for him.

Zeke went back to the grocery store and waited. He didn't have to wait long. About 10 o'clock Amy came in for some butter and things and Zeke casually mentioned that old man Brainard was sick and alone up in his house and needed nursing. That was all. That was enough. Amy was at the Brainard house within fifteen minutes.

She stood a minute just inside the doorway surveying the living room. The nurse who had left the night before had been capable. She had seen that everything was in order. There was nothing for Amy to do there. She went on up the stairs, guided by the groans of Banker Brainard. She opened the door of his bedroom and found him all doubled up with pain and panic in the middle of his be

"Well," she greeted, "what have you been doing to get yourself into this kind of a mess?"

Banker Brainard stopped groaning and looked at her. He recognized her and a look of injured innocence spread over his features.

"I haven't been doing anything," he told her with what indignation he could muster. "I've been so twisted with his arthritis that I couldn't do anything, good or bad, even if I wanted to."

"You must have been doing something you shouldn't," Amy told him severely.

"You must have been doing something you shouldn't," Amy told him severely, "or this wouldn't happen to you. Sickness is always a visitation of the Lord. A good person never is sick. When we sin we loose the forces of evil and often they turn and rend us."

"TAKE THIS!"

"Oh, for gosh sakes!" Banker Brainard groaned.

"Where's the pain?" Amy asked.

"In my right shoulder and down the arm," Banker Brainard said. "It's been there for the last three weeks and the six charlatans I've had can't do anything for it. They've cooked me and lighted me up and massaged me and given me sickening medicine. But that pain never lets up. It just keeps a-pulling and a-dragging at me so that I'm nearly crazy."

"Lie down," Amy ordered.

She put down the bag she had been carrying and opened it. From it she took a large bottle filled with a black liquid. She placed it on the dresser and looked around the room for a spoon. She found one in a saucer beside his bed and she got it and poured it full of the liquid from the bottle.

"Take this," she ordered and popped it into his open mouth.

It was a medicine that had often relieved her mother who had suffered from arthritis. It had been concocted by old Dr. Lannahan, dead these 30 years. She had a great deal of faith in it.

She went and got the patient a bite to eat. She straightened up his bed and washed him. She nursed him and took care of the house and as he mended slowly but surely, she talked to him about his sickness.

"Now, Mr. Brainard," she would say, "you must have been doing something you shouldn't or this sickness wouldn't have come to you."

"I tell you I never did anything wrong in my life!" shouted the banker who was getting stronger.

"I know better," Amy disagreed calmly. "I know that sickness is visitation and I am going to tell you how to keep from getting sick again. Now, I don't know anything about your business but I know it has to do with money. And I'll bet that you have shaved some mortgages pretty close or done some widow out of her little mite, or called a loan that it wouldn't have hurt you to let ride a little till the man who owed it could pay it. Those are some of the sins that a banker can commit. You've committed one of them or you've done something. Now I don't know what you've done and I don't want to know but I tell you this. If you don't do it again and if you keep from committing other sins, you're going to be a healthy man again and you're going to stay that way until the time comes for the Lord to call you."

Banker Brainard grinned in spite of the fact that he was so mad that he could have ordered Amy out of the house. When he got all better, he rote out a check for five hundred dollars. Amy refused it.

"It ain't Christian to take that much money for what I did for you," she told him. "I spent $15 of my own money for groceries and things. I won't charge you for my time because this was a good deed and I don't want anybody paying me for my good deeds. I'm banking them up in Heaven. They'll be up there when I need them. Give me the $15 I spent and we'll call it square."

Banker Brainard told that story all over the county and he got a great laugh out of it. But the people of Amityville didn't laugh. She had scared far too many of them.

"Sickness," she would tell any one, "is the penalty for sinning." Her brows would lift. Her cruel, thin mouth would twist. "Too bad but everyone has to pay," she would conclude.

FATE STRIKES!

Naturally, the great ambition of everyone in town was to catch Amy indisposed. But that, of course, seemed impossible. She had a 32-year record of never having missed church. She was keeping it up. It got to be one of the current jokes around Zeke Lacy's general store. They would always ask Zeke if Amy was on foot when he delivered her groceries that morning.

One cold February Sunday Amy failed to attend church. The news was all over town by mid afternoon and everyone was joking about what a terrible thing Amy must have done that she was unable to get out to services. But when, two days later, she had not been seen, the neighbors, who had never been encouraged to call each other, decided it was only humane to see if she really was sick. After knocking at her door and getting no response, they broke in and, sure enough, there was Amy with a light case of pneumonia. A doctor was called and the women went to work caring for her, and soon she was out of danger.

A couple of weeks later the Amityville Chronicle ran the following notice:

one) who were so quick to deplore and view-with-alarm the succession of Guild failures of recent years have been practically unanimous in neglecting to acclaim the change of luck . . . Of course it isn't luck . . . The change for the better happened as soon as the Guild's unwieldy directorate of six was reduced to two . . . Show-business is a one-boss—or at best—two-bosses' game . . . If the one happens to be a director, writer or producer combined (Elmer Rice was, George M. Cohan is, and Bob Sherwood could be) so much the better . . . But if he's a writer, and has experience, the other functions are manageable . . . In the new Guild success, "There Shall Be No Night," that organization has the good fortune of being associated with the Playwrights' Company . . . The Guild had the stars and the Playwrights the playwright.

IN PROCESS OF ORGANIZATION—and apparently without the usual tinge of "racket" attached to so many "anti"-movements, is a crusade toward the ending of licensed Sundays in Massachusetts . . . The 1940 legislature is the movement's objective . . . Here is a warning (in time) to the hotel-and restaurant-men, as well as to the wholesalers, that the business is underway and that high hopes are being held that it will be impossible to serve a drink in the state on Sunday. (Not by this corner.)

CHATTER: Ranny Weeks' return to the home sector was featured by a greeting party at the Mayfair preceding his opening tonight at the popular nightclub where his baton waved throughout the season of 1938-39 . . . Those invited were all of the Newton boy's fellow music-maestros who happened to be in town, and included Harry James, Louis Prima, Mickey Alpert, Joe Candullo, Anthony Bruno, Jack and Harry Marshard and Lew Bonick . . .

Newspaperman Leo Walsh, thrice a runner-up for the nomination as state auditor (Democratic), will be a candidate again this year . . . And why don't we hear more about—or from—former State Auditor Tom Buckley these days? . . . One of the bright stars in the Democratic camp, Mr. Buckley was a fixture in the news until the election of 1938.

Auto Gossip

By OTTO SCOOPS

Orchid of the week goes to the Knox Bros., Somerville Dodge-Plymouth dealers. They celebrate their 8th anniversary in the auto biz. Our best wishes for their continued success.

THOS. F. McMANUS
Wayland Motors

Herb Hertig, UC Mgr., Nash Boston, says that business is on the upswing and he is getting his share . . . We will admit that Gordon Benway, Sales Mgr., Henley Kimball Co., is one of the most energetic men we know . . . Newton Motor Sales Co., Newton's Ford Dealer, under the direction of Chet Wiley, came out on top in the Ford Motor Contest for N. E. Good Luck Chet.

Friends of Hermon V. Brooks will like to know that he has opened a Ford agency in Fall River . . .

STANLEY KNOX
Knox Bros.

First report on the Chrysler Corp. DeSoto "Gravy Train" contest gives Vaskin Badoian, of Camb., the lead by 4000 points, good work Vas.

If you are a wrestling fan, the man you are most likely to see in "Angelo's" corner is none other than Phil Wachler, auto salesman and strong man at Morley Motors . . . Manny Wolfson of Cypress Motors is back to work after his recent illness. Here's luck for many sales Manny.

After a year's absence from Hub Chev., Cambridge, Henry Eimert returned last week clicking 4 deals for a starter . . . Tom Maloney, prop. Belmont Auto Co., DeSoto-Plym., will soon occupy his new home on Concord ave., Belmont. Charlie Dailey has inaugurated many new sales features at Dailey Chev. in South Boston . . . Nat Rosnov, youthful genius of Albany Motors, just sold a $15,000 Duesenberg (price paid by Ed Wynn) to the Jones Bros., well known in theatrical circles.

GORDON BENWAY
Henley-Kimball Co.

Carl Abbott, ace bowler of the Pontiac Motor Division, was seen doing a certain night club with a certain young lady. Portland papers please copy . . . Bob Gannon is ringing the cash register regularly with new and used car sales at Harold O'Neil's.

It hasn't taken Herb Bowman very long to get things bumming at Stilphen Motors as used car manager . . . Sam Stonberg's Roxbury Buick outfit rates five stars for appearance and layout . . . Thomas F. McManus, genial owner of Wayland Motors, Ford dealers, is giving Spring a glad hand for two reasons: Business is good with him, and his son is home from Dartmouth for the holiday.

The Duggans of North Quincy, Ambrose and Frank, report that biz is humming out their way . . . Smiling Sam, the Used Car Man Weinstein is his usual cheery self at Park Motors . . . The punch board system for used car sales has been put in the Bowman Pontiac, Camb. and the boys are going to town with the prizes they are carrying off. Genial Dan McDevitt, popular school committeeman and his able right hand man, Ray Lawton, are well prepared for Spring business at Highland Chev. . . . Ralph Cote is doing a terrific new car business in Mattapan Square.

Hawaii Sends Its Nine Best Button-Biffers

TRAVEL POSTERS PAINT HAWAII AS A floral paradise where curvilinear, luscious maids swish hay skirts; where breech-clouted men moan sad songs to muted music, and where coppery kids ride the waves on ironing boards. Life is a delirium of moonlit pleasure, curious cookery and pineapple plantations.

AUSTEN LAKE

Hawaii may be all this! But today it offers Boston something else—nine cinnamon-colored button-biffers who have come 6000 miles at a cost of $9500 to enter the A. A. U.'s annual amateur slug-fest at the Garden.

There are Dado Marino, Johnny Manalo, Lucas Pasion, John Ledesma, Yashushki Yasutake, Paul Matsumoto, Robert Ching, Kenyi Noboli and Raymond Quintal—kids of garbled breeds from the crossroads of the Orient, where white blends with brown and yellow, lads ranging from faint tea-color to tobacco brown, a smatter of Japanese, a spot of Portuguese, a touch of Chinese and an undertone of white-Nordic against a Polynesian background.

During the fun-hour today they were shooting crap on the carpets of a downtown hotel suite, huddling over the freckled cubes and moaning the gambler's prayer in a polyglot tongue that sometimes fell to guttural growls and sometimes rose to falsetto burbles. Silver and bills changed hands. Little areas of perspiration showed under their arms. Their faces were moist, eager and glistening. "Ooli, oolih," intoned Noboli as he massaged the celluloid squares between his palms.

"They are relaxing," explained Dr. Apoliano, the team's male chaperone, medical overseer and housedick whose name in the original native means "Drunken God." "Next to fighting they love gambling best," said the Doctor, who has a dentist's license to hurt people in Honolulu.

They Are Best Equipped

MONDAY NIGHT 200-ODD, SOME OF THEM very odd, will gather from the compass-quarters of the U. S. A. to test knuckles against chins. Of these, the nine Hawaiians—the poi, raw fish and chili-pepper eaters from Uncle Samuel's utmost frontier, are best equipped and best trained. They go to bed with the chickens (9:30) and rise with the moon (6:00), reporting for road work at the Charles River playground (7:00) and breakfasting at ten. From two until five, they smack each other around Kelly's sock studio on Hanover st. After that they eat again and shoot crap.

The other U. S. fighters will be a heterogeneous collection of dudes, tatterdemalions, golden-boys, and nondescripts, drawn from every level of life. They will come from the share cropping regions of the South, from Kansas' corn belt and the middens of Minnesota. They will wear ten-gallon cow-hand hats and scroll-work boots, or the flat headgear of the Ozarks. They will ride in day coaches and sleep in hallway hideouts. But not the Hawaiians! They sleep between fresh sheets in the coziest hostels, ride the cushions and eat a la carte. And from the Honolulu boxing association's treasure store each lad is given a new suit, a top coat, linen and shoes. And each has his satin fighting trunks—not rayon but imported rib silk, and a gabardine kimono to match. By any amateur fight standard, they're sartorial gee-whizzes.

Honolulu Has Perfect System

THE A. A. U. DADDIES OF THE U. S. and those of New England in particular, might take a lesson from the Honolulu system, where every boy of adolescent age boxes and all are graded scrupulously according to age, weight, experience and ability. No little stumble-footed flopperoo is ever pitted against a grizzled veteran and winds up in disillusionment or ruin. No avaricious pro fight manager lurks around to gobble some likely kid and squeeze pennies from his enthusiasm.

The Hawaiian boys are guided zealously by seven committeemen who work without pay and keep an intricate card index on each one, matching them meticulously and keeping a watchful eye on their growth and grading them from 1 to 6.

"We don't want any punch-drunk goofies," said Dr. Apoliona, "We don't want them to turn professional. We don't let them fight too often. And we spend every cent we make on their welfare and upkeep."

What makes the kids turn out in such droves? Merely the prospect of being one of the few selected for the annual trip to the mainland to meet the best amateur chin busters of the Union, an incentive which lures thousands of Island boys and keep them milling and walloping the year around. For every plantation has its amateur fight club, its athletic director, its staff of trainers and coaches. And every worker's son is imbued with a yen to be counted among the champions. "Baseball is your game, boxing is ours," says Dr. Apoliona. Well . . . maybe!

Yet the odds are against the boys from way out yonder next Monday. Each of them will have to fight three or four times during the night—they're not used to that. And each will meet some of the toughest tykes in the country. We wish them luck!

SINUS AGAIN THREATENS TO SIDELINE JIM FOXX

By HERB FINNEGAN

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 4—Although Bill McKechnie and Joe Cronin are praying nightly for fair weather as their Reds and Red Sox wend their way north, neither wants any more than James Emory Fo[x] captain of the Boston cl[ub].

RANGERS LEAD, 2-0

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS)—The New York Rangers today took a 2 to 0 lead in their best four out of seven games series with the Toronto Maple Leafs for the National Hockey League championship after crushing the Leafs, 6 to 2, last night before a disappointing crowd of 13,080 in Madison Square Garden.

The third and fourth games will be played in Toronto next Saturday and Tuesday nights.

The Leafs put over two goals in the first few minutes of play and then the Rangers took them to the woodshed. Bryan Hextall, the eagle-eyed right wing of the Rangers, made Turk Broda, the Toronto goalie, look like a sieve. Hextall rallied three goals through Broda and was also credited with an assist pass on another goal.

Crusher Pins Managoff

Steve Casey, the Crusher from Ireland, retained his wrestling championship last night at the Arena by beating a severe threat to his laurels, Bob Managoff, Chicago whirlwind, before 4000 fans.

There was only one fall, because the match went over an hour, Casey taking it in 1:07:29. This victory was followed by a barrage of debris, pegged at the Crusher, who was a trifle rough with Managoff.

Casey threw him out of the ring several times and the customers didn't favor such harsh treatment to the challenger.

In the semi-final Marvin Westenberg defeated Frank Judson in 17:37 with an airplane whirl and slam.

In other bouts Pedro Brazil threw Harry Finklestein, 14:40; Charlie Strack and Jim Casey went 30 minutes to a draw and Frank Marconi pinned Ed Neuman, 13:31.

Infected Eye Hayes' New Trouble

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—Jackie Hayes, Chicago White Sox second baseman whose leg ailment last year forced him to undergo frequent examinations, is making the rounds again—this time because of an inflamed eye.

Dr. George J. Musgrave said after an examination yesterday that the inflamation might be due to an infection elsewhere in Hayes' system. So Hayes was down for further examinations today.

$15,000 Brings Armstrong Here

Henry Armstrong has finally agreed to defend his world's welterweight championship against Paul Junior of Lewiston Me., New England titleholder, in a 15-round bout to be staged by Raj Valenti of the Goodwin A. C. at the Garden Friday evening, April 26.

The match was closed when Valenti agreed to give Armstrong guarantee of $15,000 with a privilege of taking 45 per cent of the receipts if the gate extends the guarantee.

This match has been hanging fire for some time. Valenti has had the call on Armstrong's services for some time, but only when he put up the $15,000 was he successful in closing the match.

Bees Bow To Newark

SEBRING, Fla., April 4—Hitting safely in every inning, the Newark Bears pinned a 10 to 4 defeat on the Bees.

Bill Posedel, Tom Earley and George Barnicle were nicked for a total of 14 hits, including two circuit drives. Posedel was yanked after three innings during which the Bears had nicked him for four runs and a half dozen hits.

Then, Earley took up the mound burden and he went for five runs and as many hits in three stanzas. Barnicle managed to shut the Bears out in the 7th despite a couple of infield hits but in the next round Lou Blair smashed a home run over the right field fence.

Norman Branch, who worked five innings for the Bears, held the Bees to five hits, but he went for three of the Stengelers' four tallies. George Washburn finished the game and the Bees were unable to do any business with him until the ninth when Phil Masi tripled with Eddie Miller on

The Bees scored in the opening frame on a walk to Sisti and sharp single to center by Scarsella, which sent Silvby around to third and West's long fly to Buster Mills.

The Bears didn't lose any time catching up with the Bees,

Doerr Hits 4 Straight

STATESVILLE, N. C., April 4—This so-called queen city of North Carolina played host to major league clubs for the first time in its history, but what the welcoming committee of 3185 saw was a "country fair" ball game if there ever was one.

And when it was all over and the Cincinnati Reds had beaten our Red Sox 13 to 7. Every mother's child in the overflow audience agreed that the Statesville Owls could furnish them a far more entertaining contest on any given afternoon.

You could hardly blame them.

The barnstorming rivals put on their weirdest exhibition of the spring as they dedicated a new local high school ground.

The pitching, except for four innings turned in by ex-Yankee Joe Beggs for the Reds, was horrid, and the fielding, particularly on the part of the Sox, was worse than horrid.

The brightest feature of the diamond nightmare from a Boston standpoint was the hitting of Bobby Doerr, who manufactured four straight hits, including a triple and a safe bunt, before he was finally retired for the last out of the afternoon. Next to that was the improved pitching of Rich as he held the Rhinelanders to one run in the first three innings.

HARRIS TOPS SOX EFFORTS IN FLORIDA

Dom DiMag Still Limps

By HERB FINNEGAN

STATESVILLE, N. C., April 4—Joe Cronin lists the pitching of Rookie Mickey Harris as the outstanding feature of the Sox' month stay in Sarasota. Next in line he rates the improvement in Pitchers Bagby, Galehouse, Wilson and Dickman, then the hitting of Foxx. The club, he believed, was starting North better prepared for the American League start than it was a year ago.

Wilson's newly found control has pleased the Sox skipper no end. Whereas in the past Jack used to pitch two ball games in one, he's now retiring the side at times on seven and eight pitched balls. During the course of a season, that will mean a lot. The addition of a slider, a half curve ball, has been a big help to the Sox strong boy.

"If that kid could run like Red Daughters, he'd be in the big leagues right now," said Joe Cronin of Francis Walsh, 19-year old Exeter, N. H., boy, now playing third base for the Louisville Colonels. Slated to go to Little Rock or Rocky Mount at the start of training, Walsh has been hitting the ball so hard and often that Manager Bill Burwell is forced to admit that he can't get the kid out of there.

Cronin also likes Ed Pellegrini of Roxbury, who is battling for the shortstop job on the Louisville club. Pelly may yet be the boy who'll take Skipper Joe's job at shortstop. The kid hits, runs and fields in fine fashion and is game as a pebble.

Dom DiMaggio's ankle hurts him more when he is stopping than running. Against Louisville he flew down to second when Cramer singled to right, but chugged into third.

Joe Cronin kept Di Mag with the club because he figured he'd be better off in a baseball atmosphere than in Boston, where he would be in a room by himself, probably pestered by a hundred well-wishers. "At least he can do a little hitting while he's with us," said Joe, "He couldn't get any if he were in Boston."

* * *

Di Mag will be used sparingly going north. If the outfields are not firm, he will be kept out of service, but he'll continue to get his hitting before the games.

Rowell Groomed For Utility Role

By BILL GRIMES

EN ROUTE HOME WITH BEES, April 4—During the last week the Bees were in Florida, the weather was so hot and humid that the players began to get down . . . Although they are not anxious to run into a cold spell, the Bees would appreciate a day or two of crisp weather.

Bob "Ace" Williams, the southpaw from Amherst derived much benefit from his ten day stay with the Bees at Bradenton . . . He should be one of the best college hurlers in the East this season, and if he decides to take a fling at pro baseball after graduation Williams is ready for the big league . . . During the hot weather, Hank Greenberg worked out in shorts at Lakeland . . . Hank may not be as graceful as Johnny Cooney cavorting around the outer garden but he's developed into a very passable left fielder . . . And, moreover Hank has never looked as good at the plate as he has this spring . . .

GREENBERG

According to "Wish" Egan, George Tebbetts is the only player Detroit ever put through college . . . Bucky Harris has two promising rookie pitchers in Sid Hudson and Jim Dean, whom he purchased from the Sanford club of the Florida State League . . . Manager Del Baker of the Detroit Tigers is doubtful if Dick Conger's fast ball is live enough for the American League . . . Conger has a sharp breaking curve, a deceptive change of pace, and knows more about the national pastime than the usual run of ex-collegians.

Nick Strincevich, Ralph Younker, Bob Loane, Bill McElroy and George Metkovich have never been in Boston . . . Lou Scolponeti, who spent a week with Max West at Sarasota, is driving Slapsie's car back to Boston . . . Ralph May, Jr., son of the Bees' trainer, is on his way North with Mrs. Lou Fette . . . And, Pat Rigo and Jimmy Bibber are on their way back to "Easta Bost" . . . Pat worked in the clubhouse at Bradenton and didn't get many opportunities to go sight-seeing, but Jimmy made most of the trips with the Bees.

LOANE

Bama Rowell looks better at second base than any other position . . . He's very fast, covers plenty of ground, is exceptionally smooth as a pivot man on double plays, and now knows how to handle the ground balls . . . He'll be protection for Casey Stengel in the event that Sibby Sisti is injured . . . At this time, it's difficult to see where Rabbit Warstler is going to fit into the picture . . . Rab has complained of a sore arm since he reported a month ago and other than taking a few swings during batting practice, he hasn't done anything.

It's rumored that Jimmy Pofahl, the Washington shortstop, hurt his arm last winter in an auto accident . . . And, speaking of the Senators, Buddy Lewis doesn't act as though he likes Bucky Harris' decision to make him into an outfielder . . . The Brooklyn Dodgers call Reese "Skippy," not Pee Wee . . . Jack Gorsica, the big right-hand rookie pitcher with the Tigers, was a first baseman three years ago . . . While playing first for Beckley, W. Va., Gorsica was converted into a pitcher, and it looks as though he was going to remain with the Tigers.

Del Baker is banking on Hal Newhauser, the young left-hander, who will be 20 years old next month, to win from a dozen to 15 games for Detroit this season . . . Newhauser was discovered by "Wish" Egan while playing sandlot ball in Detroit . . . He started last season with Alexandria, where he won eight and lost seven, and then moved up to Beaumont, to win five and drop 14 . . . Newhauser has come along so rapidly this spring that he has an even chance to become a starting pitcher for the Tigers.

Jack Kenney, the former circulation manager of the American, Record and Advertiser, now with the Detroit Times, sent "Wish" Egan an Easter present . . . It was an old Christmas card in a large box, which was sent collect . . . $2.85.

Before entering organized baseball, Nick Strincevich was a "doubler" in an iron mill at Gary, Ind . . . Al Javery and Frank Lamanna have registered with Casey Stengel . . . Javery was the first Bees pitcher to go nine innings this spring . . . And he selected one of the hottest days of the spring to go the distance . . . Lamanna was to have pitched nine innings the same day but the weather got him down and he quit after four rounds . . . Because the reports he received on Jim Tobin were not so good, Casey Stengel is very much elated over the way that the former Pirate has been working this spring . . . Tobin and Bill Posedel were the first Bees pitchers to round into shape and they are both ready for the start of the National League season.

Providence Boys' Club Enters Harvard Swim

The Central Boys' Club from Providence, R. I., today entered the New England Boys' Clubs Swimming Championships to be held at the Harvard pool Saturday.

Coach Latham is picking John McCabe, former N. E. A. A. U. backstroke champ, to win the 150 yard dorsal event, and Paulson, N. E. junior breaststroke champion, to win the 220 yard breaststroke title.

Billy the Kid's Back Again

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 4 (AP)—The Providence Reds might as well hear the worst: Billy the Kid will be back in their hair again tonight.

The Reds hold a one-game lead on Pittsburgh in their best-of-five final series for the International-American Hockey League championship, but unless they can keep Billy Taylor under control tonight they may have a lot of trouble remaining in front. Billy almost upset them in the series opener Tuesday before Johnny Chad and Eddie Ambois got together for a last-minute goal that gave Providence a 4-3 decision.

Taylor was recalled by the Toronto Maple Leafs to play against the New York Rangers (and he scored one Toronto goal), but Manager Connie Smythe sent him right back to play the third game on successive nights. He may return to the Leafs again.

The series shifts to Pittsburgh for two games and Providence will lose the "home ice" advantage.

Two Stake Races Set for Trotters

The Trotting Horse Breeders of New England, Inc., today had decided to sponsor two stakes. The Puritan will be raced for foals of 1939. The Yankee brings back to life an event that once was a feature of the fall fairs and is for foals born this year, with the racing in 1942 and 1943.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- Hatlo

HMMM—SHE SLOPES AWAY SHARP TO THE RIGHT... HMMM—RIM OF THE CUP NOT FLUSH... HMMM... CADDY! GIVE ME MY GOOSENECK PUTTER FOR THIS ONE
SO THOSE ARE THE GUYS WHO WANTED TO PLAY THROUGH US! NEXT TIME I'LL BRING MY KNITTING
THEY TAKE LONGER TO SINK A TWO-FOOT PUTT THAN IT WOULD TAKE ME TO SINK AN EIGHTY-FOOT WELL
WHY DON'T THEY PLAY THE GAME WITH A SLIDE RULE AN' A SURVEYOR'S GADGET?
WHAT ARE THEY TRYING TO DO—HATCH OUT THEM GOLF BALLS?
FOLLOWING THE FUSS-BUDGETS WHO PLAY A HIGHLY SCIENTIFIC GAME

Semple Enters B.A.A. Marathon

The boys are at it.

Every evening trunk clad plodders make up part of the traffic over our main roads running five, 10 and sometimes 15 miles conditioning themselves for the big grind, the 25 mile marathon on April 19th.

Judging from the manner in which the entries are pouring in, it looks like a banner year for the lovers of this sport. The majority of the plodders have been set back in their training due to the heavy snows of this past winter but all are working overtime that they may be in shape for the Boston test.

Tom Kanaly, in addition to his many duties running the National Boxing championships, is handling entries and advising the entiants on this years' event.

With the strongest team ever to wear the Unicorn, the B. A. A. runners will play a prominent part in the Marathon.

B. A. A. runners entered this year are:

Johnny Semple, who finished 18th last year; George L. Durgin, who placed 14th in 1939; Cecil R. Hill, always been well up in the running; Ray Eland, John Fitzgerald, Walter Ellery and Italo Amicangioli, who placed 33d last year. William Simons, one of the leading Marathon runners in New England, also is in there.

Other entries announced yesterday by Kanaly are:

Martin Fitzpatrick, Jefferson Club, Cambridge; William A. Smallcombe, Royal Rovers, Verdun, P. Q., 23d in 1939; George Petrakos, Lowell; John D. Porter, Jr., Mattapan; Charles 'O. Rabideau, Antrim, N. H.; Joseph Blaggie, Cambridge; Nick Ruggieri, Endicott, N. Y. This makes a total of 40 entries received to date for this 44th annual classic.

75 Girls Report For Softball

About 75 girls reported at the Garden as Coach Jack Harris held the first full squad workout of 1940 for the girl softballers.

Many of last year veterans returned and a large number of new contenders, all hopeful of earning a position on this season's teams, appeared. Several newcomers showed enough ability to cause some of last summer's stars apprehension.

Mary Pratt, last year's ace; Babe Boudreau, another veteran, and the latest acquisition from Wisconsin, Herming Franks, each pitched to about 15 batters, and all three displayed unusual form for the first time out.

Coach Harris announced that all position on both Boston arrays were wide open for all comers. The Hub will be represented by two local entries this summer in the newly formed New England League.

Boston Gardenias and Norumbega Totem Polo teams will be united this summer to make up the second major club, which will sport the regimentals of Totem Pole and will be managed by popular Ben Levias.

Kevorkian Named Gridiron Coach

CLEVELAND April 4 (AP) — Alex Kevorkian, former Harvard line star, today was appointed head football coach at Cleveland University School.

He succeeds Clarence (Chief) Boston, also a former Crimson player, who resigned to become freshman coach at Harvard. Kevorkian came to University School last year as Boston's assistant. He played on the Harvard varsity in '35, '36 and '37.

A native of Newton, Mass., he prepped at Newton High School and Exeter.

PIN TOURNEY DELUGED WITH POST ENTRIES

World Champ And Wife Roll In Bowlaway

This present American-Record-Advertiser Diamond Medal New England Bowling Championships, now in full swing at the Huntington Club, has taken a peculiar twist.

There was every indication that entries would smash all records but when opening day rolled around, there were just about as many entrants as last year.

Jack Stafford, director of the tournament, was frankly puzzled until yesterday when post series started coming in with such rapidity that added help had to be secured.

COULD BEAT POSTED SCORES

After questioning a few entrants, the story finally came to light.

Many of the amateur bowlers felt that they wouldn't have a chance in the amateur championships but after watching the scores for three days, hundreds came to the conclusion that they could do as well as those who had rolled and they started filing post entries.

The post entries have been so heavy that the tourney records are a cinch to be broken now from the standpoint of bowlers participating

FORCED TO SET DEADLINE

But the situation is getting out of hand, and because of this post entries will not be permitted after Saturday night. This will be the first time in the 5-year history of the championships that a halt has been called on post entries.

The exception to this rule will be the big rollaway on the final night, April 13, for the men's singles professional championships—a ten-string total affair with all the entry money being given back in the form of purses. These select bowlers will be able to register at any time.

Francis Chiminello, world's open candlepin champion, has entered the bowlaway and his wife has entered the women's open singles... in addition they will roll in the mixed doubles.

One of the highlights yesterday came in the open men's doubles when Harry Leard and Jack Ambrose rolling from the Kenmore Recreation Alleys hit a high of 1119 which broke the tournament mark set up by Paul Poehler and Danny Donovan last year by eight pins. They were only one pin away from a world's record.

Strange as it may seem no girl or woman rolled a 300 three string total in the girls singles, women's singles or women's doubles until yesterday when Mary Corey of Jamaica Plain hit 310 in the women's singles.

Yesterday afternoon was comparatively quiet but the booming of pins from six o'clock on, re-echoed with the verve of an offensive on the Western front.

Tomorrow and Saturday are expected to be the two busiest days the tournament has ever had.

College Baseball

At Annapolis: Harvard 9, Navy 6.
At Williamsburg, Va.: William and Mary 3, Vermont 2.
At Charlottesville, Va.: University of Virginia 4, Dartmouth 5.
At New Brunswick, N. J.: Rutgers 8, Brown 2.
At Princeton, N. J.: New York University 9, Princeton 6.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

JACK Huber of San Francisco, who will represent the Pacific Coast in the heavyweight class in the national amateur boxing championships at the Garden next week, is a member of the famous Olympic Club . . . This is the organization that backed Jim Corbett against John L. Sullivan in their world's heavyweight championship bout at New Orleans in September, 1892.

Huber is 22 years of age, a big powerful fellow with a punch, and he will make a stout hearted bid to win the national amateur championship . . . Joe Louis first attracted attention when he won a national amateur title in the light heavyweight class, and Huber has hopes of emulating the "Brown Bomber" and becoming world's champion . . . There is a million dollars for any white heavyweight who can beat Louis.

After watching Johnny Paychek, Tony Galento and Max Baer against Louis, I have concluded that none of the present crop of professional contenders has a chance to defeat Louis . . . Some youngster now battling as an amateur will probably be the one to knock Louis from his fistic throne.

The Pacific Coast is sending a particularly strong team to Boston for the title bouts that open on Monday night . . . In addition to Huber there will be Lawrence Raye, 20-year-old Indian boy, in the 112-pound class; Nick DePosta, bantamweight; Paul Shinn, 126 pounds; Ritchie Shinn, 135 pounds; Al Carlisle, 20-year-old Indian in the 147-pound class; George Yoka, 18-year-old schoolboy in the middleweight division; Eddie Mullins, 19-year-old Irish-American metal worker from San Francisco in the light heavyweight class.

Amateur boxing has been booming in California, and the Pacific Coast team is confident it will win several national titles. The recent grand national finals of the Hearst All-America amateur boxing tournament were held in San Francisco, and furnished brilliant competition.

The New England boxers who made the Coast trip will attest to the splendid treatment they received from the A. A. U. officials, and various clubs in San Francisco. The Olympic Club gave the use of its quarters to the New England boxers.

Three Rings on Opening Night

THERE WILL be three rings at the opening night of the title tournament. This has been found necessary on account of the large number of entries.

It will not be necessary to have three rings on Tuesday or Wednesday nights when the number of competitors is reduced.

Tom Kanaly and Gene Driscoll report great interest in this year's championships, and it is expected that large crowds will attend the three nights of competition.

The Hawaiian boxers have been working out at Harry Kelley's Gym each day. They have displayed real fighting form, and will make things interesting for their ring rivals.

Plenty of Horses Now at Narraansett

BOBBY GOLDMAN, back from Florida, says there are already plenty of horses at Narragansett Park. Bobby is once more associated with Billy Ames in handling the ballyhoo for the opening of the Rhode Island track on April 17.

The improved weather during the past few days has made people outdoor minded. If the weather continues to improve, the Spring meeting at Narragansett should be successful.

Racing has had a good year in Florida, California and in Maryland. In Florida, attendance figures and mutuel handles have been up 19 per cent over a year ago.

"When I left Tropical Park the daily handle was averaging $400,000," Goldman told me. "It was expected to fall off this week with many horsemen shipping to Maryland and to Narragansett. Race-goers have also started North."

The Puett gate is being used to school horses at Narragansett. The public will find the Puett gate a great improvement over the old Bahr gate. There will not be any long post delays, while the horses will get off to more even starts.

The Puett gate will also be used at the New York tracks. It will get its first test in New York at the Jamaica meeting that opens on April 15.

Random Shots at Target

WALTER KILEY dropped in to say hello upon his return from St. Augustine, Fla., where he has been associated with the Florida news service . . . Walter say that one day while playing golf at St. Augustine he drove a ball to a pond that was frozen over . . . The ball bounced from the ice to the green, and Walter was down in two . . . This gave a press agent the idea to spray a palm tree on a cold morning.

When icicles formed on the tree the enterprising press agent had a bathing beauty pose under the tree . . . A picture of contrasts.

two or three over for good measure.

"Wish the season were starting tomorrow," he would say. "I never was hitting so well."

He hit a home run at Winter Haven against the Giants that pulled Bill Terry to his feet. It must have gon 450 feet. It not only cleared the wire fence in deep left field but the bank beyond and finally landed on the schoolhouse lawn, sending the pupils scurrying in every direction but mostly toward the ball park.

He smote another against Louisville in Arcadia, the longest ball ever hit over the center field fence there. There was no stopping him, it seemed.

He was stopped, though, but it wasn't by the pitchers.

One afternoon as the Sox were playing the Reds in Sarasota, Jimmy appeared on the field wearing glasses. He had a cold in the head, he said, and wore the glasses as a protection against the wind, which made his eyes water.

That was the truth, but not the whole truth. He didn't say his head was spinning, his eyes popping out of his head. Old Mr. Sinus had reappeared and was giving him a thorough massaging.

FOXX STRIKING OUT

Big Jeems never complained. He kept swinging away but not in the right places. Instead of his customary home runs he was hitting Eiffel Towers to the catcher. Yes, there was no joy in Mudville. Mighty Jeems was even striking out.

Then the deluge. After two weeks of intense pain the sinus finally cleared up as the Sox started north.

The worst was over. Jim's head cleared. He started bobbing the ball again.

"But if that weather changes sharply, I'll be licked again," grimaced Jeems. "So, Mr. Sun, please keep shining."

FAMOUS BATTLES

Jimmy's battles with Old Man Sinus are famous. He sparred with him as far back as the World Series in 1931 when he was with the A's.

"Positively couldn't see a ball," he reminisced. "The weather turned cold just before the series, and it ruined me."

(Ed. Note—Ruined wasn't exactly the word, because Jim hit .348 in that series.)

In 1935, before he was traded to the Red Sox, the sinus came back again, and somebody talked Jim into an operation. That made it worse than ever. Where he had been troubled about once in two years before he was getting it hammer and tongs every spring now.

WORST SIEGE

The worst siege of all came three years ago when the Sox were going north. Jim was bothered by nosebleeds all the way and finally had to be carried from the train in Philly before the season opened.

He had the worst year of his long career, batting only .285. He was done, the critics shouted, as obits were prepared.

But Jim came back in '38 to win the Most Valuable Player

While far below a British vessel plows toward her destination, wings of the Royal Air Force hover protectingly above . . . ready to swoop on a threatening U-boat or spot a dangerous mine. At left may be seen part of a warship, the vessel's convoy by sea.
